Ammo Depots Hit; Men From Ft. Riley Move In

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets aimed another one-two punch Monday at North Vietnamese ammunition depots in the valley of the Red River, a link between Hanoi and Red China.

A spokesman announced ordnance centers at Yen Sen and Yen Bai, respectively 65 and 77 miles northwest of Hanoi, were hit in 15-plane raids following up initial attacks there during the weekend.

A spokesman said U.S. military strength in Viet Nam will rise to 71,000 men with the scheduled completion Tuesday of the landing of the 2nd Brigade of the 1st Infantry Division, the "Big Red One" of World War II.

The brigade, the first sizeable force of U.S. combat infantrymen to be committed to the jungle war, totals 3,900. Its home base is Ft. Riley Kan.

1,000 In Vanguard

The vanguard, a reinforced battalion of 1,000 riflemen, artillerymen and support troops, streamed ashore Monday at Cam Ranh Bay, a deep-water haven on the South China Sea 180 miles northeast of Saigon.

The U.S. army's 35th Engineer Group is working on harbor improvements in the bay, one of a string of bases beaded along the coast from Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, to Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of this city.

Col. James Simmons, brigade commander, told newsmen the first mission of his men is to protect the engineers. Although there has been little guerrilla action in the bay area in recent months a big Viet Cong buildup has been reported inland.

To Go Find Reds

"Later, when we get our feet on the ground, we'll get out there and find the Viet Cong," Simmons said.

In Seoul, a special session of South Korea's national assembly was asked by President Chung Hee Park to approve the government's plan to send a combat division to South Viet Nam. Such a division presumably would total about 15,000 men. South Korea already has 2,500 military men—largely noncombat engineers and medical personnel—in this country.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the House of Commons that Deputy Pensions Minister Harold Davies, his peace envoy in Hanoi, has had a seven-hour talk with leaders of North Viet Nam's Fatherland Front.

The front is a Communist-dominated array of agencies formed in 1955 to give President Ho Chi Minh's regime a broader base than the Communist Party alone. Wilson said the chief Vietnamese spokesman was a senior member of the foreign ministry.

The prime minister, whose plans for a Commonwealth Viet Nam peace mission were stalled by opposition in Peking, Moscow and Hanoi, said, "To judge from the first report I have had, the Hanoi authorities are in no doubt whatsoever about the position of the British government."

Nebraska May Be First To OK 25th Amendment

Nebraska made a bid Monday to become the first state in the nation to ratify a proposed U.S. constitutional amendment dealing with presidential incapacity.

A resolution was adopted on a 47-0 vote of the 49-member Unicameral. The signature of the governor and formal certification by the secretary of state will complete the state-level ratification action.

The United States Senate last Tuesday completed congressional action on the proposed 25th constitutional amendment, but formal notification reached Nebraska Governor Frank Morrison's office only Monday.

38 Needed

Thirty-eight states must ratify to make the amendment effective.

Nebarska's resolution had already been prepared at the urging of State Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln and was adopted immediately by a suspension of rules.

The U.S. Constitutional addition provides that whenever the vice presidency is vacant, the president shall nominate a vice president, subject to confirmation by both houses of Congress.

Whenever the president advises the Congress that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the vice president becomes acting president.

Congress Decides

Whenever the vice president and the cabinet or some other body as Congress may prescribe declare the president unable to perform his duties, the vice president becomes acting president. "ut if the president should dispute this inability declaration the Congress would decide.

Stromer said that ratification of the amendment by the states will "in moments of tragedy replace emotion and confusion with responsibility and protection."

Report Urges Private U.S.-Canada Solutions

Johnson City, Tex. (AP)—An American-Canadian team of former ambassadors urged Monday that the two countries solve problems in private instead of "raising a row and being unpleasant in public."

President Johnson released the report—which makes numerous other points on an international partnership of unique dimensions—and pronounced it a serious, constructive contribution to still better relations.

There was no direct mention of something of a chill over Vietnamese policy at one point between the men who commissioned the report —Johnson and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada.

Called For Pause

This came last April when Pearson, on the eve of a meeting with Johnson at Camp David, called for a pause in retaliatory air strikes against the North Vietnamese.

The Canadian in a speech in Philadelphia said he was not proposing any compromise on "points of principle, nor any weakening of resistance to aggression in South Viet Nam," but he was suggesting that "a measured pause" might ease the way toward negotiations for an eventual cease-fire.

The next day Pearson discussed the proposal with Johnson, who said in declining to comment on it, "It is not for me to pass judgment on what other countries do."

LBJ Unhappy

Johnson appeared unhappy that the subject was raised in a news conference questioning of the two and told newsmen Pearson's "visit has nothing whatever to do with Viet Nam or anything else you could blow up or make big and dramatic."

After making the report ublic Monday, Johnson toiled through some paperwork, announced some appointments, and ordered his things packed so he could get back to Washington Monday night. He has scheduled a news conference Tuesday at the White House for 11 a.m.

The American President and Canadian prime minister announced after a meeting in January of last year they wanted a study made of the desirability and practicability of working out principles for avoiding policy differences between the neighboring nations. Out of this came a report on "principles for partnership" from Livingston T. Merchant, a top U.S. diplomat, and A. D. P. Heeney, a Canadian counterpart. Each man served twice as ambassador to the country of the other.

Funds For Buildings Get 1st OK

Lincoln Star Special

Washington — A proposed new federal office building for Lincoln, costing nearly $15 million, and federal construction of a $3.5 million Post Office building won the first of several required Congressional approvals Monday.

The two buildings were included in a bill authorizing construction of 16 federal buildings which was approved by the Senate Public Works Committee.

Such projects must be included in "authorization" bills approved by both houses of Congress, and must then receive separate Congressional action appropriating funds for the construction.

Two Blocks

The big federal office building, which with a nearby parking area would occupy two square blocks of space, will cost $14,890,000 to build.

The building would be more than three times the size of the currently-planned City-County Building.

The plan submitted by the General Services Administration calls for construction of the building on a square-block site in the downtown business district. Rep. Clair Callan in the original announcement said it was possible the building might be located on 15th Street.

The building site would have parking space for about 60 vehicles and a basement garage for about 50.

Because of anticipated difficulty in finding one site two square blocks in size, the plan is for the block of parking to be located nearby but not on a contiguous site.

The $3,694,000 Post Office building is planned for a site already earmarked at Eighth St. between Q and T. That area had been planned as the site for a Post Office building built and owned by private enterprise and leased by the Post Office.

Already Working

An architect is already at work on working drawings for the Post Office building, and the drawings are expected to be completed about next January.

Federal officials estimate the 50-year cost of the Post Office Building (including repair and upkeep but not operation and maintenance) at more than $14 million under the lease arrangement but at only about $8 million if the federal government constructs and owns the building.

The giant federal office building, officials figure, would cost the government $32.6 million to build and keep in repair for 50 years, while comparable leased space for the same 50-year period would cost $64.7 million.

Obsolete

The General Services Administration proposes to dispose of the present Post Office building, which it says is "structurally sound" but "obsolete from a functional and operational standpoint." A GSA report says the building "lacks air conditioning and the heating, electrical and plumbing systems are antiquated."

The new Post Office building will be outside the downtown business district, with good access to arterial highways, the report points out, but the federal office building "requires a convenient, readily accessible location near the center of the city."

Voters, Not Population, Bill's Districting Key

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Monday accepted for introduction a new bill proposing a constitutional amendment which would change the basis of legislative apportionment from population to the number of electors, or eligible voters.

The proposed amendment would also permit the Unicameral to cross county lines on a limited basis, increase the maximum membership from 50 to 65, and permit at-large elections in counties with more than one legislative district.

Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine presented the proposal to the Government and Military Affairs Committee, which, in turn, referred it to the Legislature on a 5-0 vote.

Accepted, 32-8

The bill, LB923, was accepted for introduction on a 32-8 vote.

Also received were two reapportionment measures recommended by the Committee on Committees.

LB924, which would cross county lines and create 50 districts, was accepted on a 37-4 vote. LB925, creating 46 districts honoring county lines, won 35-2 acceptance.

All three bills will be referred to committee for public hearing.

Earlier, the lawmakers voted 21-26 not to appeal the U.S. District Court decision holding their 1965 reapportionment act invalid, thus clearing the path for consideration of a new redistricting plan.

Minimum Boosted

LB923 also provides that the minimum size of the Unicameral would be boosted from 30 to 40 members, and it would protect four-year staggered terms when new redistricting laws are enacted.

County lines would be followed except where a county has too many electors for one senator. In those instances, boundaries could be crossed.

Adamson said the constitutional amendment would prevent gerrymandering in crossing county lines. Basing apportionment on electors would not alter the number of Douglas and Lancaster County senators, he noted.

If the proposal were approved by the Unicameral, it would be submitted to the voters at the 1966 general election.

Strip Of 44th Will Be Taken By City

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

An ordinance which will open No. 44th between Turner and Edison was approved, 6-1, by the City Council Monday.

The controversial improvement district, opposed by residents on both sides of 44th whose property lines extend to the street's centerline, will result in only one immediate change: Maintenance of the street will pass from the property owners to the city.

The street in that area has been open to public use for at least 10 years. It is 30 feet wide, surfaced with crushed rock and has been maintained by abutting property owners.

Under provisions of the ordinance, the city will acquire 30 feet of right-of-way on both sides of the centerline, either by dedication or condemnation.

Exempted

Acting Public Works Director Robert Obering said that the district was created so that those lots which have already been dedicated to the city by the owners will be exempted from improvement district assessments.

The lots which have not been dedicated will be condemned, the city will purchase the property and assess the costs to the owners, according to Obering.

The majority of council members said they felt 44th should be made a public street so that city maintenance will insure adequate fire and police protection.

Councilman John Comstock, who cast the only negative vote, said that this was the first time in his memory as a councilman that "we have opened up a street when no one has asked for it."

He added that 44th has been dedicated to the public anyway, by virtue of its continuous public use.

'No One Asked'

"No one asked for this and now the city will have to maintain the street. And we cry about lack of funds," said Comstock.

In other action, an ordinance introduced by Mayor Dean Petersen, designed to regulate and license teen-age clubs, was placed on first reading.

Petersen had requested that the ordinance be introduced after the Police Department and mayor's office had received complaints about the operation of several teen-age clubs from property owners and parents several weeks ago.

Public hearing of the ordinance will be held July 26.

The council approved two requests for zoning changes, by Xene Noble for a change of zone from A-2 and B-2 family dwelling to K light industry on five lots on the southeast corner of 3rd and A and by John Dietrich and the City-County Planning Commission, from D multiple dwelling to I commercial on three lots on No. 47th, near Huntington.

Rescheduled

Councilman Ervin Peterson announced that the meeting between the council, county commissioners and the architects for the new city-county building has been rescheduled for Aug. 4.

Several "basic decisions" relating to space allocation will have to be made, Peterson said.

Other business:

Coleman Neutral Enough

. . . TO BE JUDGE

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said Monday he is completely satisfied that James P. Coleman is moderate enough on segregation to confirmed as a judge on the federal appeals court that serves the Deep South.

But witnesses opposing the former Mississippi governor's nomination to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals described the nomination as a political payoff, called Coleman a clever segregationist and urged that Negroes be named to such judgeships.

Katzenbach, with Coleman seated beside him, was an unusual leadoff witness before a crowded chamber of a Senate judiciary subcommittee.

40 Years Ago

The attorney general told newsmen later he could recall only two or three instances where the attorney general had testified on behalf of a judicial nomination. The last previous instance he cited was over 40 years ago.

The attorney general's appearance caused some confusion over the order of witnesses. After him, the senators called opponents to the nomination. John L. Lewis, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, protested this, saying Coleman should testify first.

Lewis, testifying later, told the committee that if "this outspoken segregationist" is confirmed it may cause Negroes of the Deep South "to lose faith in the judicial process."

"They may be forced, in the name of freedom, to carry on mass social dislocation and civil disobedience through out the South," he said.

Threat Denied

Sen. Samuel J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., presiding, asked if this was a threat of a civil disobedience campaign if the Senate confirms Coleman.

"I'm not here to make threats," Lewis replied. He said it is not the people of the South who determine if there will be civil disobedienc but people like Coleman and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., both commented that they didn't interpret Lewis' statement as a threat, but a calm and reasonable understanding of what could happen if Coleman is confirmed.

'Viewed In Context'

The attorney general told the senators he is completely satisfied Coleman can serve fairly and firmly.

H said the former governor's past statements in support of segregation must be viewed "in the context of Mississippi life, with the highly emotional quality of the race issue in that state."

Katzenbach said Coleman had "stood up time and again for the law against extremist views when this was nor politically popular." The attorney general added: "One act of that kind is worth a hundred campaign speeches."

NAACP Resolution

Among those opposing the nomination was Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington office of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He presented a resolution adopted at the recent NAACP national convention in Denver taking note of President Johnson's election last year and saying of Coleman:

"We are aware of his (Coleman's) support for the national Democratic Party ticket when most Mississippi regular Democrats were deserting on the issue of civil rights.

"Nevertheless, we do not believe that the rewards of victory should go to any of the architects of racial discrimination."

Ammo Depots Hit; Men From Ft. Riley Move In

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets aimed another one-two punch Monday at North Vietnamese ammunition depots in the valley of the Red River, a link between Hanoi and Red China.

A spokesman announced ordnance centers at Yen Sen and Yen Bai, respectively 65 and 77 miles northwest of Hanoi, were hit in 15-plane raids following up initial attacks there during the weekend.

A spokesman said U.S. military strength in Viet Nam will rise to 71,000 men with the scheduled completion Tuesday of the landing of the 2nd Brigade of the 1st Infantry Division, the "Big Red One" of World War II.

The brigade, the first sizeable force of U.S. combat infantrymen to be committed to the jungle war, totals 3,900. Its home base is Ft. Riley Kan.

1,000 In Vanguard

The vanguard, a reinforced battalion of 1,000 riflemen, artillerymen and support troops, streamed ashore Monday at Cam Ranh Bay, a deep-water haven on the South China Sea 180 miles northeast of Saigon.

The U.S. army's 35th Engineer Group is working on harbor improvements in the bay, one of a string of bases beaded along the coast from Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, to Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of this city.

Col. James Simmons, brigade commander, told newsmen the first mission of his men is to protect the engineers. Although there has been little guerrilla action in the bay area in recent months a big Viet Cong buildup has been reported inland.

To Go Find Reds

"Later, when we get our feet on the ground, we'll get out there and find the Viet Cong," Simmons said.

In Seoul, a special session of South Korea's national assembly was asked by President Chung Hee Park to approve the government's plan to send a combat division to South Viet Nam. Such a division presumably would total about 15,000 men. South Korea already has 2,500 military men—largely noncombat engineers and medical personnel—in this country.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the House of Commons that Deputy Pensions Minister Harold Davies, his peace envoy in Hanoi, has had a seven-hour talk with leaders of North Viet Nam's Fatherland Front.

The front is a Communist-dominated array of agencies formed in 1955 to give President Ho Chi Minh's regime a broader base than the Communist Party alone. Wilson said the chief Vietnamese spokesman was a senior member of the foreign ministry.

The prime minister, whose plans for a Commonwealth Viet Nam peace mission were stalled by opposition in Peking, Moscow and Hanoi, said, "To judge from the first report I have had, the Hanoi authorities are in no doubt whatsoever about the position of the British government."

Nebraska May Be First To OK 25th Amendment

Nebraska made a bid Monday to become the first state in the nation to ratify a proposed U.S. constitutional amendment dealing with presidential incapacity.

A resolution was adopted on a 47-0 vote of the 49-member Unicameral. The signature of the governor and formal certification by the secretary of state will complete the state-level ratification action.

The United States Senate last Tuesday completed congressional action on the proposed 25th constitutional amendment, but formal notification reached Nebraska Governor Frank Morrison's office only Monday.

38 Needed

Thirty-eight states must ratify to make the amendment effective.

Nebarska's resolution had already been prepared at the urging of State Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln and was adopted immediately by a suspension of rules.

The U.S. Constitutional addition provides that whenever the vice presidency is vacant, the president shall nominate a vice president, subject to confirmation by both houses of Congress.

Whenever the president advises the Congress that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the vice president becomes acting president.

Congress Decides

Whenever the vice president and the cabinet or some other body as Congress may prescribe declare the president unable to perform his duties, the vice president becomes acting president. But if the president should dispute this inability declaration the Congress would decide.

Stromer said that ratification of the amendment by the states will "in moments of tragedy replace emotion and confusion with responsibility and protection."

Report Urges Private U.S.-Canada Solutions

Johnson City, Tex. (AP)—An American-Canadian team of former ambassadors urged Monday that the two countries solve problems in private instead of "raising a row and being unpleasant in public."

President Johnson released the report—which makes numerous other points on an international partnership of unique dimensions—and pronounced it a serious, constructive contribution to still better relations.

There was no direct mention of something of a chill over Vietnamese policy at one point between the men who commissioned the report —Johnson and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada.

Called For Pause

This came last April when Pearson, on the eve of a meeting with Johnson at Camp David, called for a pause in retaliatory air strikes against the North Vietnamese.

The Canadian in a speech in Philadelphia said he was not proposing any compromise on "points of principle, nor any weakening of resistance to aggression in South Viet Nam," but he was suggesting that "a measured pause" might ease the way toward negotiations for an eventual cease-fire.

The next day Pearson discussed the proposal with Johnson, who said in declining to comment on it, "It is not for me to pass judgment on what other countries do."

LBJ Unhappy

Johnson appeared unhappy that the subject was raised in a news conference questioning of the two and told newsmen Pearson's "visit has nothing whatever to do with Viet Nam or anything else you could blow up or make big and dramatic."

After making the report ublic Monday, Johnson toiled through some paperwork, announced some appointments, and ordered his things packed so he could get back to Washington Monday night. He has scheduled a news conference Tuesday at the White House for 11 a.m.

The American President and Canadian prime minister announced after a meeting in January of last year they wanted a study made of the desirability and practicability of working out principles for avoiding policy differences between the neighboring nations. Out of this came a report on "principles for partnership" from Livingston T. Merchant, a top U.S. diplomat, and A. D. P. Heeney, a Canadian counterpart. Each man served twice as ambassador to the country of the other.

Family Planning Active In States

Washington (AP) — The chief of the Federal Children's Bureau estimated Monday night that 24 states and territories are spending some $1.75 million this year for family-planning services, including birth control.

Mrs. Katherine B. Oettinger disclosed the figures in a speech prepared for the institute on health education at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.

The Children's Bureau said this is the first official federal estimate of the scope and cost in federal and state matching funds of family-planning services now being provided under such sponsorship.

States' Services

The bureau said the 24 state and territories offering such services are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, Puerto Rico, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, the Virgin Islands, and Washington.

A spokesman said the amounts being spent in each state are not readily available.

Discussing the program in her speech, Mrs. Oettinger said:

"These services are provided as a part of the comprehensive maternity care and are included in the regular doctor-patient relationship which insures that a woman who wants to plan her family can select the method which is most acceptable to her."

Tennessee Program

"These programs are administered by state and local health departments.

She noted that in Tennessee some $75,000 is being spent for family-planning under the State Health Department's maternal and child health program and that there are some 30 family-planning clinics in the state.

Mrs. Oettinger said the family-services program is an outgrowth of the 1963 maternal and child health and mental retardation amendments to the Social Security Act.

She added that the pending Social Security-health care legislation would provide increased authorizations for maternal and child health and crippled children's services.

3 Survivors Of Ditching Returned

Falmouth, Mass. (AP)—Three surviving crewmen of the 19-man radar picket plane which ditched at sea Sunday night returned to Otis Air Force Base Monday night as the hunt continued for seven men still missing.

Nine bodies were recovered at sea. They were not officially identified.

The Air Force identified the survivors as Airman 1.C. John N. Puopolo, 25, of Sagamore, and Roslindale, Mass.; 1st Lt. Bruce E. Witcher, aircraft navigator, of Otis AFB and Redding, Calif.; and Airman 2.C David A. Surles, 24, of Raleigh, N.C., and Falmouth. Surles and Puopolo are radar technicians.

They were returned to Otis by plane from the Navy carrier U.S.S. Wasp after being plucked from the sea Monday.

Puopolo's wife, Nina, said at her home, "Thank goodness he's coming home safe . . . I just sat at home and prayed."

Mrs. Ada Surles said, "I'm just overwhelmed, just overwhelmed. I don't know what to say."

Floated 8 Hours

The three survivors, wearing life jackets, stayed afloat for eight hours in six-foot seas before being rescued by helicopter. They were taken aboard a German navy destroyer and transferred to the Wasp before being returned to Otis.

Immediate sessions of questioning were scheduled for the survivors by Brig. Gen. O. B. Johnson of Washington.

He has been appointed to head investigations of the ditching of the $2.5 million plane, operated as part of the North American Air Defense Command's distant early warning system.

India Uses Device, Gossip In Program

New Delhi, India (AP) — The Indian government disclosed Monday it is planning a massive attack against the nation's population explosion with help from cheap plastic devices and "gossipology."

Dr. Sushila Nayar, health minister, told a news conference a widespread information program will begin Thursday to popularize a family planning effort which has been striving against great odds to reduce the population increase, now estimated at 12 million annually.

The main aim, she said, is to convince women of child-bearing age among the nation's 480 million people that use of the "intra-uterine loop" is a safe and easy way to stop having children. This plastic device, new in India, costs about 1½ U.S. cents to manufacture and is being distributed free in government clinics throughout the country.

Radio broadcasts, movies and mobile teams of experts will be used to explain the new device in thousands of villages.

But Dr. Nayar said experience shows village gossip among women is the best way of spreading birth control information and the government is taking advantage of this "gossipology" by introducing the intra-uterine device to selected women and then letting them tell their friends.

POLICE CHARGE . . . Negro pickets in Girard College violence.

Violence Breaks Out During Meeting On Girard College White Only Policy

Philadelphia (AP)—A deputy police commissioner was punched and bruised Monday as club wielding police clashed with a crowd of pickets outside the state office building where Gov. William W. Scranton was trying to resolve a dispute over Girard College's white only admission policy.

At least five persons were arrested when violence flared outside the 20-story building just four blocks from city hall in Center City. Two policemen were taken to Philadelphia General Hospital for examinations after being kicked during the melee.

The Pennsylvania governor, Mayor James Tate of Philadelphia, some civil rights group officials and the 13 trustees of Girard College were in the building's penthouse starting their meeting when the trouble began.

Elevators Sealed

During the fighting, which lasted less then 10 minutes, state employes sealed off the building's eight elevators to prevent anyone from trying to reach the penthouse meeting room.

Deputy Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo was punched and suffered minor hand and arm lacerations.

Rizzo said a group of pickets cursed and insulted policemen on duty. He said the pickets then attacked the officers. Other police, wielding clubs, rushed in to break up the battle. One picket was knocked unconscious and two others suffered head wounds.

Five Arrested

Those three male pickets and two women were taken into custody. Police said they probably would be charged with inciting to riot.

Girard College is a boy's school restricted to poor, white, male orphans under the will of its founder, Stephen Girard, a Revolutionary War merchant. The will has been attacked in the U.S. Supreme Court and upheld there.

Last May 1, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), protesting this white only admission policy, started picketing the school, which includes grade school, and high school classes.

U.S. Factory Jobs Exceed 18 Million Mark

Washington (UPI)—Factory jobs climbed over the 18 million mark in June and almost bettered the record achieved during the boom days of World War II, the Labor Department reported Monday.

It also announced that the average factory worker's weekly earnings increased to a new record high of $108.21 a week.

A Labor Department official said manufacturing employment showed "great strength" in rising by 244,000 to 18,068,000 last month. Most of the gains came in steel, auto and other metalworking industries.

This was the highest factory job figure since the total reached 18,074,000 in November 1943 when the economy was at its wartime peak.

JFK Thought LBJ Wouldn't Take 2nd Spot—Schlesinger

New York (AP)—When the late John F. Kennedy offered Lyndon B. Johnson the place of vice president on the 1960 Democratic ticket, Kennedy didn't think Johnson would accept, didn't think Johnson wanted it and was nearly correct, historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. reported Monday.

Schlesinger was Kennedy's special assistant while the late president was in the White House.

His account, in Life magazine, was part of his forthcoming book, "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House."

Kennedy, Schlesinger wrote, offered the second spot to Johnson "because he thought it imperative to restore relations with the Senate leader."

"News of this offer, Kennedy hoped, would reunite the Democrats, please the older generation of professionals, improve the ticket's chances in the South and lay the basis for future collaboration with Johnson," the historian added. "He was certain there was practically no chance that Johnson would accept."

Johnson had, in fact, been advised by close friends and aides, including his wife and the late House speaker, Sam Rayburn, not to take the offer if it came, Schlesinger said.

Post Would Change

In writing of Johnson's thinking about the vice presidential offer, Schlesinger said:

"Whoever won the election, the post of Senate leader would be very different under Kennedy or (Republican nominee Richard M.) Nixon from what it had been under (Republican President Dwight D.) Eisenhower.

"Johnson could hardly expect to retain the power he had exerted with such relish and skill in the late 1950s. Beyond this, Johnson had long wanted to be a national and not a sectional political figure. Now he saw what might be a last chance to break out of the Texas trap and become a national leader.

"He doubtless saw, too, a chance to save the South from growing bitterness and isolation by leading it back into the Democratic Party and the national consensus."

He Found One

This line of thought made it clear to Kennedy on his first meeting with Johnson that he had found a vice president whether he liked it or not, Schlesinger said.

"Kennedy returned to his own suite in a state of considerable bafflement," Schlesinger said. "'You just won't believe it,' he said. '. . . He wants it!'"

Soon after that, the repercussions began.

Russians Say More Aid To North Viets

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Monday it has pledged additional military and economic aid to North Viet Nam to help in what the Kremlin called "the Vietnamese people's struggle against the aggression of American imperialists."

The announcement did not give details but indicated the military aid might include additional hardware to resist the continuing US.. air strikes against North Viet Nam.

US.. officials have reported several missile sites under construction by Soviet technicians near Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

The Soviet announcement came in a communique released by the official news agency Tass on talks last week between Soviet officials and a North Vietnamese delegation led by Deputy Premier Le Thanh Nghi. It said the aid agreement was concluded Saturday.

The agreement was simultaneously announced by radio Hanoi.

The communique said:

"The talks on Soviet assistance to the development of the national economy and strengthening of the DRV's (North Viet Nam's) defense potential with due consideration for the needs that arose in connection with the Vietnamese people's struggle against the aggression of American imperialists passed in a spirit of fraternal friendship and complete mutual understanding."

Wheat Cutting Still Lags Due To Wet Fields

. . . Weeds, Rust Taking Toll

The 1965 Nebraska winter wheat harvest is lagging behind normal schedule because of wet weather, government crop observers said Monday.

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said that at the close of last week, "only about 30% of the crop had been cut."

The division, in its weekly crop report, said weeds and black stem rust were harassing the crop in most parts of the state. Yields in some southern areas were suffering.

Harvest of the second cutting of alfalfa was nearly 32% completed but again frequent showers slowed the harvest and affected the crop quality.

Oats and barley, the division said, are advancing toward maturity and will be ready for harvest as soon as wheat is out of the way. Rye is also nearly ripe and will soon be ready for harvest.

Some of the early corn is starting to tassel, but there is considerable variability in the development of plants with some just recently planted only six inches high.

Corn Damaged

Hail has set the corn crop back in many areas and flooding has taken a toll of some acreage.

Sorghum also shows considerable variation in plant development, but is making excellent growth, the division said.

Thinning and blocking of sugar beets is practically completed. Hail has damaged some acreage.

Dry beans are making good growth but the crop needs warm, dry weather. Early planted soybeans are also making excellent growth with a good supply of moisture.

Cattle and calves are registering good gains from the pasture and range feed. Flies and mosquitoes are becoming bothersome, though.

Rainfall received throughout the state during the week ending Monday included:

East
Grand Island	.79	Norfolk	.65
Lincoln	1.67	Omaha	.65
Central
Burwell	.31	Valentine	1.58
North Platte	1.77

Mail Carrier Loses Life In Prague Crash

Wahoo (AP) — James J. Voboril, 66, Prague rural mail carrier, was killed Monday in a headon collision at the crest of a hill four miles north and three-fourth miles west of Prague, the county attorney's office reported.

Voboril was alone in his car at the time of the accident.

A spokesman for the county attorney said the driver of the other car, Jaroslav Brtek, 39, of Prague was taken to Saunders County Community Hospital and later transferred to the Veterans Hospital in Omaha.

He said there were no witnesses to the accident.

The death brings the 1965 Nebraska highway death toll to 166, compared with 186 on this date a year ago.

Tentative Accord In Goodyear Co. Tieup Announced

Labor and management announced Monday that a tentative agreement has been reached between the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. plant in Lincoln and the 950 striking employes.

Both plant manager Dan Remigio and president Gilbert Laws of United Rubber Workers Union Local 286 reported that details of the agreement will not be divulged until after a membership vote on the agreement.

A strike at the plant began three weeks ago next Thursday when union and management were unable to agree on terms of a new contract.

At issue, among other things was the distribution of salary increases given workers at the Cincinnati, Ohio, signing earlier this year of new industry-wide contracts.

Laws said that if membership accepts the new contract, workers could be available to return to work on the 3 p.m. shift Wednesday.

He said the union membership meeting probably would not take place before Wednesday morning, however.

'Nebraska Day' At Fair Features Cornhuskers

New York (UPI) — Nebraska Gov. Frank B. Morrison visited the New York World's Fair Monday for "Nebraska Day" ceremonies and was presented with a silver bowl to mark the occasion.

"It's wonderful being here again," said Morrison at the ceremony held at the U.S. Pavilion. The governor was accompanied by his wife and Lt. Cols. Lloyd J. Johnson and Milton Hagelberger, of the Nebraska Air National Guard. Morrison attended "Nebraska Day" ceremonies at the fair last year.

In a brief speech to some 350 persons assembled at the pavilion, Morrison said that "New York has been a second home for me in many ways." He said that it was through the port of New York that "most of our ancestors streamed to America's heartland."

Taking note of New York's current drought, Morrison urged his listeners to visit Nebraska which "has plenty of water and is a veritable floating island."

The ceremony was capped by entertainment by the "Melody Men" quartet of Blair, Neb. Mrs. Morrison sang "Beautiful Nebraska" as soloist, accompanied by the group.

The Pawnee City, Neb., 84-member High School Band, under the direction of Arthur Schrepe, was also featured in a concert.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Rozanek of Fremont, Neb., who have gained national prominence with their polka dancing, were also on the program.

In addition to fair officials, the welcoming party included Omaha-born Richard C. Patterson Jr., New York's commissioner of public events and chief of protocol for the fair.

Family Of Five Saved; Clung To Cruiser 3 Hours

Alma (AP)—A Garden City, Kan., couple and their three children were pulled from the waters of the Harlan County Reservoir Sunday after clinging to their overturned boat for three hours.

The Robert Pettigo family suffered no ill effects. High winds caused their cruiser to capsize about one and one-half miles from the north shore cabin area.

They were rescued by Gene Fleming and Robert Knight of Hastings who spotted the family's plight while scanning the lake with field glasses.

Dead Sea Scrolls Arrive In Omaha

Omaha (UPI) — The Dead Sea Scrolls of Jordan arrived here by van Sunday.

They will be on display at the Joslyn Art Museum beginning Saturday.

The museum is one of six in the country which will exhibit the scrolls, considered one of the most significant archaeological discoveries of all time.

The scrolls were found in caves along the northwest coast of the Dead Sea.

245 Enrolled In Summer Session

Milford (AP)—The first summer session opened Monday at the Nebraska Vocational Educational School at Milford with 245 students enrolled.

The class was the first under the new 12-month, four-quarter plan ordered by the Legislature earlier this year.

School Director Lowell Welsh said there were a few vacancies remaining in welding, air conditioning, electronics and electricity classes, but that other classes had been filled.

Advanced students will report Aug. 31.

Swim Rules At State Parks To Continue, Warn Officials

State Game Commission officials said Monday they will continue to enforce swimming regulations at state parks and recreation areas, despite the objections of Fremont attorney John Cutright.

The officials said Cutright should be cited if he attempts again to break the swimming prohibition on Fremont State Lake No. 10.

Cutright, a 73-year-old long distance swimming enthusiast, swam the width of Lake No. 10 Sunday, right past signs saying swimming in the waters is prohibited. Cutright said he received a warning from Warden Andrew Nielsen but was not stopped.

He swam through the "forbidden waters," he said, "to preserve the wonderful art of swimming."

"Mr. Cutright is setting a real poor example for kids and people who don't have his swimming ability," said Jack Strain, chief of the Parks Division. "We limited swimming in Lake No. 10 for safety reasons, and we will continue to do so.

"If Mr. Cutright swims across the lake again, he should be cited. We can't allow him to do things other people are prohibited from doing."

Cutright contends the Game Commission has no authority to close parts of state lakes to swimmers. Two years ago, he was charged with violating a commission swimming regulation, but the charge was dismissed in Justice Court at Fremont.

Game Commission Director Mel Steen said the commission has authority to establish rules and regulations at areas under its control, but enforcement is placed in the hands of county attorneys.

Wheat Cutting Still Lags Due To Wet Fields

. . . Weeds, Rust Taking Toll

The 1965 Nebraska winter wheat harvest is lagging behind normal schedule because of wet weather, government crop observers said Monday.

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said that at the close of last week, "only about 30% of the crop had been cut."

The division, in its weekly crop report, said weeds and black stem rust were harassing the crop in most parts of the state. Yields in some southern areas were suffering.

Harvest of the second cutting of alfalfa was nearly 32% completed but again frequent showers slowed the harvest and affected the crop quality.

Oats and barley, the division said, are advancing toward maturity and will be ready for harvest as soon as wheat is out of the way. Rye is also nearly ripe and will soon be ready for harvest.

Some of the early corn is starting to tassel, but there is considerable variability in the development of plants with some just recently planted only six inches high.

Corn Damaged

Hail has set the corn crop back in many areas and flooding has taken a toll of some acreage.

Sorghum also shows considerable variation in plant development, but is making excellent growth, the division said.

Thinning and blocking of sugar beets is practically completed. Hail has damaged some acreage.

Dry beans are making good growth but the crop needs warm, dry weather. Early planted soybeans are also making excellent growth with a good supply of moisture.

Cattle and calves are registering good gains from the pasture and range feed. Flies and mosquitoes are becoming bothersome, though.

Alert But Not Against

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

"The day may come," comments The Ashland Gazette, "when our very existence in this valley will end, unless sufficient protests are made to Washington, protests that will outshout all the metropolitan areas' gladness at the thought of a big new lake close by." The Gazette was speaking about prospects for a big new dam on the Platte River near South Bend.

This is a proposition that is still very far in the future, if at all, but Ashland is certainly well advised to be alert. While it is in the future, it could very well come into being. But one wonders if it is yet time for Ashland to enter the protests which are called for by the Gazette. Perhaps the people of Ashland have made their decision in the matter but it is hoped that they have not. Quoting from a letter from the Corps of Engineers, the Gazette pointed out:

More Than One View

"However, this (dam) can be achieved only by expenditure of large sums, extensive relocations of capital improvements, and relocation of a considerable number of people. At this stage we believe that more detailed study is required before final conclusions can be reached. There is a need to establish more clearly the technical features of this project, which will permit better cost estimates. A more refined analysis of economic effects is also required. Probably the most important, a fuller definition of the social consequences must be made."

Included in those words is an unstated reference to Ashland. The people of Ashland are among those who would have to be relocated. In other words, the town of Ashland would have to be moved. Perhaps even Greenwood to the southwest would be affected.

At first glance, the people of Ashland might rebel at such an idea. The thought of leaving their homes, their businesses, their churches, their schools, etc., is not likely to be a pleasant one. There are other considerations, however, that are important. Just as the government will not proceed without much additional study, Ashland should not proceed without assessing the future. Has Ashland stopped to think about the possibilities that exist for it in the wake of such a development as a dam on the Platte River near South Bend? The project would be probably the largest body of water to be impounded in Nebraska. It would be adjacent to the Interstate which would make it accessible to the traveling public. It would be equally convenient to the two largest population centers in Nebraska — Omaha and Lincoln.

It would seem that Ashland could, under those circumstances, face some staggering economic prospects. A new Ashland could well end up closer to the Interstate than is now the case, giving it better service from this growing national highway of commerce, business and pleasure. A new Ashland could be located so as to remove it from any threat of future flooding, an advantage it does not now enjoy. A new Ashland and a new water recreation center on the Platte would be a complementary development of almost unlimited opportunity.

A recent issue of Business Week dwells on the growing leisure time of Americans and speaks of the kinds of opportunities that can be Ashland's at this moment. It reports a National Association of Home Builders projection of 75,000 to 100,000 new second homes a year. These are homes used by Americans to get away from the routine and confinement of the place in which they live during four or five days a week.

"The New Seabury development on Cape Cod," says Business Week, "will have more than 20 miles of bridle paths when it is completed. Its 3,000 acres will include bird sanctuaries, golf courses, marinas, tennis courts, playgrounds, and woodland paths.

"A survey of the Jamaica Beach development in Texas offers a clue as to who is buying these packaged leisure communities. Some 45 percent bought for pleasure, 11 percent for pure investment, and 15 percent for a retirement home." It goes on to note that boating sales are now at the $2 billion a year mark. It would seem that Ashland might be at the threshold of an opportunity that seldom opens up to any community. On its own it could never embark upon the development of a new community to serve in a variety of capacities as the hub of the population center of Nebraska and as a major stop along the Interstate.

Future Tells Of Changes

Understandably, the Corps in its letter to the Gazette cautioned against over-optimism Why? Because of the fantastic opportunities that such a Platte River development would afford Ashland. This community along Salt Creek should be vitally concerned over such a development but it could be concerned in the wrong direction—against a potential of such promise as to stagger the imagination.

Crime In Capital Arouses Johnson

WASHINGTON — President Johnson will soon appoint a crime commission to do something about the alarming increase of violent crime in the nation's capital. It has become so bad that it is embarrassing our diplomatic relations.

The ambassador of Kuwait, Talat Al-Ghoussein, and his wife were bound in their residence and robbed. Mrs. Gwendolyn Cafritz, famous Washington hostess who lives nearby, was bound and robbed of $250,000 in jewels. A German publisher attending an International Press Convention, standing momentarily in a doorway to escape a thunderstorm was yoked and robbed.

Secretary of Defense McNamara's daughter has been robbed twice in front of her own home. Mrs. Mike Monroney, wife of the senator from Oklahoma who lives near the family of the late John Foster Dulles, will not go out at night to mail a letter at the corner postbox, though she had no fear of walking through Moscow after midnight.

Alarmed over this situation, President Johnson wants to draft, William Rogers, former attorney general under Eisenhower, to serve on a crime commission, along with Judge Marjorie Lawson, a Negro jurist on the juvenile court, and possibly Warren Olney III, former head of the California crime commission, if Olney's U.S. Supreme Court duties will permit him to serve.

Note: One way of solving crime on the D.C. busses would be to swear in bus drivers as citizen-constables, train and equip them with side arms.

Though there's been a lot of publicity regarding the diminishing numbers of whooping cranes and headlines every time one of them hatches an egg, another rare bird is in even greater danger of extinction.

It's the Everglades Kite, of which only ten of the species are known to be alive in the entire United States, as against forty whooping cranes.

The kite has managed to combat civilization in the Florida Everglades National Park, but this year has not returned to its nesting grounds.

Housing projects and truck farms have been its chief enemy, because this bird feeds on an exclusive diet of rare snails. As man drains the swamps of Florida, these snails become more difficult to find.

This year, drought in southern Florida has hurt the snail population of the Everglades and also the feeding grounds of the kite. It may be that the last ten kites have disappeared this year.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

Jubilant July is here — the month that starts out with a bang and the Fourth of July and comes to a sluggish close. River and streams are now lazy and tepid as the midsummer sun beats down upon them. By the end of the month, many of them will be only small threads of water striving to reach the next bend. Algae is forming on the muddy pasture ponds, a certain indication of the warm days and nights. Soon the sluggish dog days of August will be upon us and we will sigh and wonder how we can make it through another heat-searing month before September comes.

Black-eyed Susans dot the lowlands with great splashes of vivid orange color now and the bogs are filling in with cattails and water hyacinth. The pond is a haven for wildlife with its heavy water grasses and reeds edging it. I hear a bittern call every night and am tempted to walk quietly about the outer fringes of the pond in search of this heron-like bird with its long bill and neck. I know the habits of this bird when danger approaches. I assume it would stretch its beak and long neck skyward, looking so much like the reeds about it that my frail human eyes could not detect it, anyway.

I am content to stay in the dooryard and listen to its booming sound that is something like a pump-handle being worked up and down — and a rusty one, at that.

Beans, beans — and more beans! First we eat green beans, then we eat yellow beans, and back to green beans again, although we are at the stage where the color makes little difference. A bean is still a bean despite its color variation.

I do not care for beans put into the freezer. I hesitate to can them as I have no pressure cooker. We have been doing the next best thing — giving them away—but this has become a problem, too, as almost everyone around has a heavy yield.

Tomorrow I am going to make bean pickles. If we cannot eat them as pickles, I like them cut into pieces and mixed with chopped onions and mayonnaise. Served on a bed of lettuce, it does make a tasty salad. I have a new recipe for an oven dish using beans that a lady down the road told me about, claiming it makes them taste so utterly delicious, one would scarcely know he was eating the vegetable. It comes to the table with a bubbling white sauce to which bits of fried bacon have been added and topped with French fried onion rings. I must admit it makes me eager to try just one more dish of beans.

I think there is nothing so persistent as cucumber beetles. They start early in the season and try to destroy the vines all summer long. I have dusted them vigorously and faithfully after each rain, which has been a full-time job this year, but still they insist on sneaking in a few nibbles when there is no poison on them. I have noticed a gradual reduction in the vines from time to time. They seem to get down through the dusted leaves and eat at the root of the stems. Soon the vines wither and all I see are small cucumbers two and three inches long scattered about . . . victims of the pesky beetles . . .

I would be most happy if the beetles discontinued their eating habits on the cucumbers and traveled across the garden to the bean patch and nibbled there for awhile. I wonder how I could encourage their appetites for beans. Unfortunately beans do not look like cucumbers. I do think it would be only fair if the beetles would let us get a taste of sweet pickles or dills. The way it is beginning to look now, I think I shall have to frame the first cucumber and hang it above the kitchen table to look at instead of eating it. It would serve as a reminder for next year to skip the planting of cucumbers and buy our pickles in a jar.

The Oriental Mind

Long ago we used to think, as most other Americans, that we westerners had a copyright on ingenuity. And we had a companion thought, namely, that the Oriental mind was a traditional one and could do no more than imitate our progressiveness.

Now there is a shattered dream!

What we didn't know was that the Japanese, for instance, were required by our laws to remain out of competition in fields that could make it hard for our producers. So all we saw on the market were cheap imitations of our products.

Well the Japanese have built the fastest and fanciest railroad between Tokyo and Osaka of them all. The high speed electric trains have an engineer, but the engine is run from headquarters.

As for enterprise we learned not long ago that a resourceful Tokyo retailer of sporting goods called in the concrete man and had his store front rebuilt as a mountain side. Now he sells loads of mountain climbing equipment and his customers only have to step outside his store to try out the stuff. That is carrying ingenuity to the last degree.

And lately we find another example. A Japanese has designed a commercial swimming pool in the shape of a doughnut and has introduced a strong current in it. Now an energetic swimmer can swim upstream by the hour and never leave his point of beginning. A lazy swimmer can float indefinitely and never get beyond a few feet of his starting point. That is getting a lot into a small space.

The pool ranks with the rowing machine and the gymnasium bicycle with working the pants off of one without getting him anywhere. We say we have been tied.

Party Responsibility

Lincoln, Neb.

It is becoming more obvious all the time that what Nebraska needs is a partisan legislature. I feel that both the Republican and Democratic parties in Nebraska should get behind a petition drive to get this issue on the ballot in the next general election.

Since the first session of the non-partisan legislature in 1937, there has been no party responsibility for anything. The governor and the legislature in each case have simply passed the buck.

By having a partisan legislature, both the governor and the legislature would have to assume responsibility for their deeds and misdeeds — the party platforms would have to be followed, and maybe the legislative sessions would not drag on so long. At least the people would be able to see what they were getting and performance would talk louder than mere words.

One Party, But Whose?

Hastings, Neb.

U.S. Senator Carl Curtis wants Nebraska to understand that it is imperative that he be elected to the U.S. Senate in 1966 in order to keep a two party system in America. Now I suggest that Curtis and all others of like mind to consider the presidential elections during the 68 years 1896 to 1964. The records show the Republicans won in 1896, 1900, 1904, 1908, 1920, 1924, 1928, 1952 and 1956 — a total of nine GOP victories.

The Democrats won in 1912, 1916, 1932, 1936, 1940, 1944, 1948, 1960 and 1964. This is a total of 9 Democratic victories.

I challenge Sen. Curtis or any other Republican politician or statesman to divide 18 elections more evenly while fussing about America becoming a one party nation.

And Curtis should consider Nebraska, a Republican stronghold, where for many years every state office was held by Republicans, and Sen. Curtis did not open his mouth in opposition to Nebraska becoming a one party state, so long as it was Republican.

Further Curtis must remember that for some years every member of the Nebraska Congressional delegation was Republican. And for 20 years Nebraska did not have a Democratic governor. But the election of Ralph Brooks, as governor, in 1958 and of Democrat Frank Morrison for three consecutive terms, 1960, 1962 and 1964 was something that Curtis could not stand. And after 28 years Nebraska elected a Democrat as lieutenant governor, Phil Sorensen, and the Democrats elected one of its own to Congress in 1964—Clair Callan. This broke the monopoly of seats for Nebraska in the 89th Congress. And very frustrating to Sen. Curtis, Nebraska favored the Democratic presidential candidate, President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964.

If the United States ever evolves a one party system it will be a military instead of a civilian government. Never let us forget that President Harry Truman removed the late Gen. Douglas McArthur from command of the U.S. forces in Korea because the general made an effort to usurp the powers of the President of the U.S.A.

Events cast their shadows before.

For Equality

Lincoln, Neb.

Any person or their families receiving monthly Social Security checks should think twice before voting for Sen. Carl Crutis when he comes up for re-election. It is too bad that everyone cannot read a piece in the recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post about a group of multi-millionaires who do not pay any income taxes. They have made their millions in oil, real estate and insurance. They call the Internal Revenue Service the Infernal Revenue Service.

It seems to me these men are very unpatriotic. They do not wish to support the government that has made it possible for them to be millionaires. These and others like them are the ones that spend thousands of dollars to keep Senator Curtis and others like him in office.

But people, I think, are beginning to wake up, as the vote on the Medicare bill shows. Let us in Nebraska wake up and put Senator Curtis on his big pension that he has voted himself after only a few years in Congress.

Divorce Law

Lincoln, Neb.

The divorce and child support laws must be changed.

They were made years ago when mothers never worked outside the home. Now prior to divorce, mothers work out and after divorce, they keep on working, making twice the wage that dad does in some cases. Then dad must pay the high price support or take off and be a fugitive father.

I say put mother back in the home until the children are grown up, or if she insists on working give dad the children and let her pay some child support. I bet the divorce rate would be cut down, saving the taxpayer a lot of money in the way of aid to dependent children.

No End In Sight

Beginning next Monday in Washington will be a two-day national highway conference, sponsored by the General Contractors of America. The meeting will mark the halfway point in construction of the 41,000 mile Interstate Highway system, scheduled to be completed in 1972.

Two things have become apparent in the program to date. The original $41 billion estimate for the project will be substantially surpassed as the road is now expecteid to have the final price tag of $46.8 billion. By the time it is completed, that estimate, too, will no doubt have to be revised.

Secondly, the highway has proven to be one of the most popular undertakings of the federal government. Mere casual observation is enough to convince anyone that four-lane divided highways are the wave of the future. Many two-lane roads will remain with us but they will be considered a nuisance and an inconvenience.

For the future, the two-lane highway will have a status about on a par with today's gravel. All things considered, the Interstate's claim to fame rests with the time it saves in traveling. In saving time, the American people increase their mobility and people have never wanted to be more on the move than they do today.

With the initial highway costs going up and the system certain to be expanded, the special trust fund created for the Interstate takes on more and more of a permanent nature. And the years will come when maintenance looms as a major financial problem. But with the popularity it has won, the Interstate system will find few opponents, even from a fiscal point of view.

Venezuela Runs A Real Democracy

CARACAS, Venezuela — Determined men with political roots that go deep into the past are setting out to prove in Venezuela that neither military dictatorship nor communist takeovers are inevitable in Latin America

President Raul Leoni is well into the second year of his elected five-year term and, insofar as the passing observer can judge, the country is stable and the resolute effort to put down communist guerrillas and terrorists is succeeding.

It was plain that the still-unresolved crisis in the Dominican Republic is his foremost concern.

Leoni showed a remarkable understanding of the reasons for America's intervention on that fateful day in April when the Marines were ordered into Santo Domingo. You could not have another Cuba, he said. You had this factor in your public opinion to consider.

Nevertheless, it was unilateral action contrary to the basic principle of the Organization of American States, and this is what President Leoni came back to again and again in our talk. He reflects the profound shock wave felt from one tip of the continent to the other over an act raising somber memories of the days of the Yankee gringo and strutting military figures installed to "keep order."

The first article of his faith is representative government — government duly elected by the people — and it is here that he sees a significant part of America's failure in the Dominican crisis. Communists had, of course, infiltrated the rebel movement. No one could know this better than Venezuela's president who has had to devote energy and resources to repelling subversion from Cuba. But if a free election were held in the Dominican Republic, Leoni is certain that the communists would be a negligible factor. And it is to such an election freely held that Leoni and other democratically minded leaders in Latin America look for a satisfactory resolution of the Dominican issue.

The big question is whether this can come about and when. And until it is achieved Venezuela's president has grave doubts over the proposed permanent inter-American military force that is supposedly to be considered at the Rio de Janeiro conference of OAS foreign ministers on August 4.

Who is to command such a force? he asks. What will be its site? Will elements from the forces of individual nations be permanently assigned to such a standby force? Or will they simply be designated for use when a particular need arises?

American power — military, economic, in every aspect — is paramount. You have only to see what part it plays in Venezuela's swiftly expanding economy to understand this as the Latins themselves understand it. But what use the United States will make of this power is the question leaders like Leoni are asking in the aftermath of the Dominican crisis.

We're Not As Big As Kilmer

Our world may be moving fast, but not too fast to take off a few moments for nostalgia.

Joyce Kilmer of New Brunswick, New Jersey, joined the colors in 1917. He was a talented youth and had already started his career which would have elevated him to a position of one of the nation's leading poets. But a bullet cut short his life.

Not long before that he had produced a poem—"Trees" For twenty years after his death that piece of verse, put to music, was America's most beloved and best known bit of poetry. Even today it can be found in any poetic anthology worthy of the name

Kilmer's career was similar to that of the young British intellectual, Alan Seeger, who sat in the trenches of World War I and wrote "I Have a Rendezvous With Death" How right he was. It was not long afterward that he was killed.

Now we have this to report. The great oak in New Brunswick, which suggested Kilmer's verse, is dead and gone. Now his birthplace will soon be torn down because the land is needed as a parking lot. It was preserved for years by the New Brunswick post of the American Legion. But recently an effort to save it further by popular subscription failed. So it looks as though the legend of Joyce Kilmer is about over.

Two wars have made a callous people of us. We build housing developments on historic battlefields where much of our history was written. Hallowed ground sells like any other nowadays and there is no one to prevent it.

The birthplaces of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and others were preserved long ago and still remind us of a more spiritual past But now we don't seem to care any more.

Future Tells Of Changes

Understandably, the Corps in its letter to the Gazette cautioned against over-optimism Why? Because of the fantastic opportunities that such a Platte River development would afford Ashland. This community along Salt Creek should be vitally concerned over such a development but it could be concerned in the wrong direction—against a potential of such promise as to stagger the imagination.

Warning

The Oriental Mind

Long ago we used to think, as most other Americans, that we westerners had a copyright on ingenuity. And we had a companion thought, namely, that the Oriental mind was a traditional one and could do no more than imitate our progressiveness.

Now there is a shattered dream!

What we didn't know was that the Japanese, for instance, were required by our laws to remain out of competition in fields that could make it hard for our producers. So all we saw on the market were cheap imitations of our products.

Well the Japanese have built the fastest and fanciest railroad between Tokyo and Osaka of them all. The high speed electric trains have an engineer, but the engine is run from headquarters.

As for enterprise we learned not long ago that a resourceful Tokyo retailer of sporting goods called in the concrete man and had his store front rebuilt as a mountain side. Now he sells loads of mountain climbing equipment and his customers only have to step outside his store to try out the stuff. That is carrying ingenuity to the last degree.

And lately we find another example. A Japanese has designed a commercial swimming pool in the shape of a doughnut and has introduced a strong current in it. Now an energetic swimmer can swim upstream by the hour and never leave his point of beginning. A lazy swimmer can float indefinitely and never get beyond a few feet of his starting point. That is getting a lot into a small space.

The pool ranks with the rowing machine and the gymnasium bicycle with working the pants off of one without getting him anywhere. We say we have been tied.

No End In Sight

Beginning next Monday in Washington will be a two-day national highway conference, sponsored by the General Contractors of America. The meeting will mark the halfway point in construction of the 41,000 mile Interstate Highway system, scheduled to be completed in 1972.

Two things have become apparent in the program to date. The original $41 billion estimate for the project will be substantially surpassed as the road is now expectetd to have the final price tag of $46.8 billion. By the time it is completed, that estimate, too, will no doubt have to be revised.

Secondly, the highway has proven to be one of the most popular undertakings of the federal government. Mere casual observation is enough to convince anyone that four-lane divided highways are the wave of the future. Many two-lane roads will remain with us but they will be considered a nuisance and an inconvenience.

For the future, the two-lane highway will have a status about on a par with today's gravel. All things considered, the Interstate's claim to fame rests with the time it saves in traveling. In saving time, the American people increase their mobility and people have never wanted to be more on the move than they do today.

With the initial highway costs going up and the system certain to be expanded, the special trust fund created for the Interstate takes on more and more of a permanent nature. And the years will come when maintenance looms as a major financial problem. But with the popularity it has won, the Interstate system will find few opponents, even from a fiscal point of view.

We're Not As Big As Kilmer

Our world may be moving fast, but not too fast to take off a few moments for nostalgia.

Joyce Kilmer of New Brunswick, New Jersey, joined the colors in 1917. He was a talented youth and had already started his career which would have elevated him to a position of one of the nation's leading poets. But a bullet cut short his life.

Not long before that he had produced a poem—"Trees." For twenty years after his death that piece of verse, put to music, was America's most beloved and best known bit of poetry. Even today it can be found in any poetic anthology worthy of the name.

Kilmer's career was similar to that of the young British intellectual, Alan Seeger, who sat in the trenches of World War I and wrote "I Have a Rendezvous With Death." How right he was. It was not long afterward that he was killed.

Now we have this to report. The great oak in New Brunswick, which suggested Kilmer's verse, is dead and gone. Now his birthplace will soon be torn down because the land is needed as a parking lot. It was preserved for years by the New Brunswick post of the American Legion. But recently an effort to save it further by popular subscription failed. So it looks as though the legend of Joyce Kilmer is about over.

Two wars have made a callous people of us. We build housing developments on historic battlefields where much of our history was written. Hallowed ground sells like any other nowadays and there is no one to prevent it.

The birthplaces of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and others were preserved long ago and still remind us of a more spiritual past. But now we don't seem to care any more.

Crime In Capital Arouses Johnson

WASHINGTON — President Johnson will soon appoint a crime commission to do something about the alarming increase of violent crime in the nation's capital. It has become so bad that it is embarrassing our diplomatic relations.

The ambassador of Kuwait, Talat Al-Ghoussein, and his wife were bound in their residence and robbed. Mrs. Gwendolyn Cafritz, famous Washington hostess who lives nearby, was bound and robbed of $250,000 in jewels. A German publisher attending an International Press Convention, standing momentarily in a doorway to escape a thunderstorm was yoked and robbed.

Secretary of Defense McNamara's daughter has been robbed twice in front of her own home. Mrs. Mike Monroney, wife of the senator from Oklahoma who lives near the family of the late John Foster Dulles, will not go out at night to mail a letter at the corner postbox, though she had no fear of walking through Moscow after midnight.

Alarmed over this situation, President Johnson wants to draft, William Rogers, former attorney general under Eisenhower, to serve on a crime commission, along with Judge Marjorie Lawson, a Negro jurist on the juvenile court, and possibly Warren Olney III, former head of the California crime commission, if Olney's U.S. Supreme Court duties will permit him to serve.

Note: One way of solving crime on the D.C. busses would be to swear in bus drivers as citizen-constables, train and equip them with side arms.

Though there's been a lot of publicity regarding the diminishing numbers of whooping cranes and headlines every time one of them hatches an egg, another rare bird is in even greater danger of extinction.

It's the Everglades Kite, of which only ten of the species are known to be alive in the entire United States, as against forty whooping cranes.

The kite has managed to combat civilization in the Florida Everglades National Park, but this year has not returned to its nesting grounds.

Housing projects and truck farms have been its chief enemy, because this bird feeds on an exclusive diet of rare snails. As man drains the swamps of Florida, these snails become more difficult to find.

This year, drought in southern Florida has hurt the snail population of the Everglades and also the feeding grounds of the kite. It may be that the last ten kites have disappeared this year.

Venezuela Runs A Real Democracy

CARACAS, Venezuela — Determined men with political roots that go deep into the past are setting out to prove in Venezuela that neither military dictatorship nor communist takeovers are inevitable in Latin America.

President Raul Leoni is well into the second year of his elected five-year term and, insofar as the passing observer can judge, the country is stable and the resolute effort to put down communist guerrillas and terrorists is succeeding.

It was plain that the still-unresolved crisis in the Dominican Republic is his foremost concern.

Leoni showed a remarkable understanding of the reasons for America's intervention on that fateful day in April when the Marines were ordered into Santo Domingo. You could not have another Cuba, he said. You had this factor in your public opinion to consider.

Nevertheless, it was unilateral action contrary to the basic principle of the Organization of American States, and this is what President Leoni came back to again and again in our talk. He reflects the profound shock wave felt from one tip of the continent to the other over an act raising somber memories of the days of the Yankee gringo and strutting military figures installed to "keep order."

The first article of his faith is representative government — government duly elected by the people — and it is here that he sees a significant part of America's failure in the Dominican crisis. Communists had, of course, infiltrated the rebel movement. No one could know this better than Venezuela's president who has had to devote energy and resources to repelling subversion from Cuba. But if a free election were held in the Dominican Republic, Leoni is certain that the communists would be a negligible factor. And it is to such an election freely held that Leoni and other democratically minded leaders in Latin America look for a satisfactory resolution of the Dominican issue.

The big question is whether this can come about and when. And until it is achieved Venezuela's president has grave doubts over the proposed permanent inter-American military force that is supposedly to be considered at the Rio de Janeiro conference of OAS foreign ministers on August 4.

Who is to command such a force? he asks. What will be its site? Will elements from the forces of individual nations be permanently assigned to such a standby force? Or will they simply be designated for use when a particular need arises?

American power — military, economic, in every aspect — is paramount. You have only to see what part it plays in Venezuela's swiftly expanding economy to understand this as the Latins themselves understand it. But what use the United States will make of this power is the question leaders like Leoni are asking in the aftermath of the Dominican crisis.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

Jubilant July is here — the month that starts out with a bang and the Fourth of July and comes to a sluggish close. River and streams are now lazy and tepid as the midsummer sun beats down upon them. By the end of the month, many of them will be only small threads of water striving to reach the next bend. Algae is forming on the muddy pasture ponds, a certain indication of the warm days and nights. Soon the sluggish dog days of August will be upon us and we will sigh and wonder how we can make it through another heat-searing month before September comes.

Black-eyed Susans dot the lowlands with great splashes of vivid orange color now and the bogs are filling in with cattails and water hyacinth. The pond is a haven for wildlife with its heavy water grasses and reeds edging it. I hear a bittern call every night and am tempted to walk quietly about the outer fringes of the pond in search of this heron-like bird with its long bill and neck. I know the habits of this bird when danger approaches. I assume it would stretch its beak and long neck skyward, looking so much like the reeds about it that my frail human eyes could not detect it, anyway.

I am content to stay in the dooryard and listen to its booming sound that is something like a pump-handle being worked up and down — and a rusty one, at that.

Beans, beans — and more beans! First we eat green beans, then we eat yellow beans, and back to green beans again, although we are at the stage where the color makes little difference. A bean is still a bean despite its color variation.

I do not care for beans put into the freezer. I hesitate to can them as I have no pressure cooker. We have been doing the next best thing — giving them away—but this has become a problem, too, as almost everyone around has a heavy yield.

Tomorrow I am going to make bean pickles. If we cannot eat them as pickles, I like them cut into pieces and mixed with chopped onions and mayonnaise. Served on a bed of lettuce, it does make a tasty salad. I have a new recipe for an oven dish using beans that a lady down the road told me about, claiming it makes them taste so utterly delicious, one would scarcely know he was eating the vegetable. It comes to the table with a bubbling white sauce to which bits of fried bacon have been added and topped with French fried onion rings. I must admit it makes me eager to try just one more dish of beans.

I think there is nothing so persistent as cucumber beetles. They start early in the season and try to destroy the vines all summer long. I have dusted them vigorously and faithfully after each rain, which has been a full-time job this year, but still they insist on sneaking in a few nibbles when there is no poison on them. I have noticed a gradual reduction in the vines from time to time. They seem to get down through the dusted leaves and eat at the root of the stems. Soon the vines wither and all I see are small cucumbers two and three inches long scattered about . . . victims of the pesky beetles . . .

I would be most happy if the beetles discontinued their eating habits on the cucumbers and traveled across the garden to the bean patch and nibbled there for awhile. I wonder how I could encourage their appetites for beans. Unfortunately beans do not look like cucumbers. I do think it would be only fair if the beetles would let us get a taste of sweet pickles or dills. The way it is beginning to look now, I think I shall have to frame the first cucumber and hang it above the kitchen table to look at instead of eating it. It would serve as a reminder for next year to skip the planting of cucumbers and buy our pickles in a jar.

Party Responsibility

Lincoln, Neb.

It is becoming more obvious all the time that what Nebraska needs is a partisan legislature. I feel that both the Republican and Democratic parties in Nebraska should get behind a petition drive to get this issue on the ballot in the next general election.

Since the first session of the non-partisan legislature in 1937, there has been no party responsibility for anything. The governor and the legislature in each case have simply passed the buck.

By having a partisan legislature, both the governor and the legislature would have to assume responsibility for their deeds and misdeeds — the party platforms would have to be followed, and maybe the legislative sessions would not drag on so long. At least the people would be able to see what they were getting and performance would talk louder than mere words.

One Party, But Whose?

Hastings, Neb.

U.S. Senator Carl Curtis wants Nebraska to understand that it is imperative that he be elected to the U.S. Senate in 1966 in order to keep a two party system in America. Now I suggest that Curtis and all others of like mind to consider the presidential elections during the 68 years 1896 to 1964. The records show the Republicans won in 1896, 1900, 1904, 1908, 1920, 1924, 1928, 1952 and 1956 — a total of nine GOP victories.

The Democrats won in 1912, 1916, 1932, 1936, 1940, 1944, 1948, 1960 and 1964. This is a total of 9 Democratic victories.

I challenge Sen. Curtis or any other Republican politician or statesman to divide 18 elections more evenly while fussing about America becoming a one party nation.

And Curtis should consider Nebraska, a Republican stronghold, where for many years every state office was held by Republicans, and Sen. Curtis did not open his mouth in opposition to Nebraska becoming a one party state, so long as it was Republican.

Further Curtis must remember that for some years every member of the Nebraska Congressional delegation was Republican. And for 20 years Nebraska did not have a Democratic governor. But the election of Ralph Brooks, as governor, in 1958 and of Democrat Frank Morrison for three consecutive terms, 1960, 1962 and 1964 was something that Curtis could not stand. And after 28 years Nebraska elected a Democrat as lieutenant governor, Phil Sorensen, and the Democrats elected one of its own to Congress in 1964—Clair Callan. This broke the monopoly of seats for Nebraska in the 89th Congress. And very frustrating to Sen. Curtis, Nebraska favored the Democratic presidential candidate, President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964.

If the United States ever evolves a one party system it will be a military instead of a civilian government. Never let us forget that President Harry Truman removed the late Gen. Douglas McArthur from command of the U.S. forces in Korea because the general made an effort to usurp the powers of the President of the U.S.A.

Events cast their shadows before.

For Equality

Lincoln, Neb.

Any person or their families receiving monthly Social Security checks should think twice before voting for Sen. Carl Crutis when he comes up for re-election. It is too bad that everyone cannot read a piece in the recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post about a group of multi-millionaires who do not pay any income taxes. They have made their millions in oil, real estate and insurance. They call the Internal Revenue Service the Infernal Revenue Service.

It seems to me these men are very unpatriotic. They do not wish to support the government that has made it possible for them to be millionaires. These and others like them are the ones that spend thousands of dollars to keep Senator Curtis and others like him in office.

But people, I think, are beginning to wake up, as the vote on the Medicare bill shows. Let us in Nebraska wake up and put Senator Curtis on his big pension that he has voted himself after only a few years in Congress.

Divorce Law

Lincoln, Neb.

The divorce and child support laws must be changed.

They were made years ago when mothers never worked outside the home. Now prior to divorce, mothers work out and after divorce, they keep on working, making twice the wage that dad does in some cases. Then dad must pay the high price support or take off and be a fugitive father.

I say put mother back in the home until the children are grown up, or if she insists on working give dad the children and let her pay some child support. I bet the divorce rate would be cut down, saving the taxpayer a lot of money in the way of aid to dependent children.

Legislators Reject Night Session Proposal

Nebraska's Legislature ended a 10-day July vacation Monday, gave some fleeting consideration to holding a night session to speed the session's business but turned down the idea.

Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine proposed an evening meeting this week for the purpose of handling bills on final reading. This involves the routine reading aloud of bills and the final vote on them.

The motion needed 33 affirmative votes but could muster only 27, with 17 opposed.

Lawmakers have abandoned all hope of adjournment before August, but generally believe that with diligence, they can wind up the session by the middle of August. The longest previous Unicameral session, two years ago, ended on July 16.

'Longer Days'

Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha told colleagues Monday that longer work days rather than evening sessions would provide the necessary speed-up. He said the daily sessions should begin at 8:30 a.m. instead of 9 a.m., and the customary two-hour lunch interval should be cut to 60 minutes or 90 minutes.

As its first major business, the Legislature passed five bills on final reading but this still left 114 bills on the floor awaiting handling. The total includes 43 bills on general file where measures receive their initial and major floor debate.

The list of bills passed (E-emergency clause):

LB524—Providing for a documentary stamp tax on conveyances of real estate at the rate of 55 cents per $500 value, effective Jan. 1, 1966 or when the federal stamp act is repealed, whichever is later. (Burbach) (32-13).

LB727—Providing for payment to department of motor vehicles of fees for prorated buses and permitting local registration of buses. (Wylie, E. Rasmussen) (48-0).

LB909—Providing that income under the federal government's anti-poverty program shall not deprive a person of eligibility for assistance to the aged, blind or disabled. (Revenue Committee) (E) (49-0).

LB593—Creating the Nebraska arts council supervised by a board of directors of 15 to 30 members. (Orme) (36-9).

LB913—Permitting use of money from the revolving fund for the blind for the purchase for resale to blind persons of tape recorders, braille-writers, canes and other equipment. (Budget committee) (E).

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Folks Near Retirement Need Profitable Hobby

By ROBERT PETERSON

Folks approaching retirement should develop profitable avocations. Then when they're forced to retire they have something definite and remunerative awaiting them. Instead of wondering what to do, or worrying about their reduced income, they can turn their avocation into a full-time occupation.

Two who developed such a sideline are twins Algia and Hassie Middleton of Detroit, Mich. Last April they hit 65 and were forced to retire from their jobs in a foundry of the Cadillac Motor Company.

Where their colleagues faced retirement with varying degrees of uncertainty, the twins greeted their new leisure with enthusiasm for it meant they could devote full time to their gardening business.

Ten years ago the twins, who are married and live in separate houses in the same neighborhood, signed up for a free course in gardening offered by the city. They knew nothing about the scientific aspects of horticulture but they had long been interested in the appearance of their lawns.

They learned the fine points about seeding, reseeding, soil tending, fertilizing, shrub and tree pruning, and watering, and for three years they practiced and experimented with what they had been taught.

Then they let word get around that they were available to care for lawns in their community. They contracted to care for a neighbor's lawn, who in turn recommended them to someone else. Pretty soon they had all the work they could sandwich into their evenings and weekends.

"Lawn work interested us because we worked in the foundry," said Algia when I talked with him on the phone last evening. "This is about the dirtiest kind of work in industry and we felt our health demanded that we spend as much of our leisure time as possible out in the fresh air.

"We worked at the plant from 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and then went home, showered, changed our clothes, and spent two or three hours working on lawns for our customers. When we retired we had 15 folks on our list whose lawns we tended, and since we got from $10 to $15 a month from each it was a welcome addition to our income.

"Now that we're retired we can take on a few more customers. We have our pensions and can net $100 monthly apiece without forfeiting any of our Social Security.

What does lawn care involve? "When we take on a customer we agree to cut his grass once a week during the growing season, trim the shrubs and small trees twice a month, and in general keep his place looking neat and clean.

"We have a small truck, bring our own tools, and probably devote four or five hours a month to each job.

Are there lots of opportunities for gardners? "Oh yes, there's more work around than we can handle. Most gardening firms handle only big jobs. We're one of the few specializing in small yards."

Do they ever plan to retire? "Not until our health fails. We enjoy this kind of work and feel the fresh air and exercise are good for us. It keeps us out of mischief and the money permits us to enjoy with our families those extra comforts and pleasures that can mean so much to one's satisfaction."

If you would like a booklet "Employment Tips for Older People" write to Robert Petersen, Life Begins at Forty, c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents to cover handling costs.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Folks Near Retirement Need Profitable Hobby

By ROBERT PETERSON

Folks approaching retirement should develop profitable avocations. Then when they're forced to retire they have something definite and remunerative awaiting them. Instead of wondering what to do, or worrying about their reduced income, they can turn their avocation into a full-time occupation.

Two who developed such a sideline are twins Algia and Hassie Middleton of Detroit, Mich. Last April they hit 65 and were forced to retire from their jobs in a foundry of the Cadillac Motor Company.

Where their colleagues faced retirement with varying degrees of uncertainty, the twins greeted their new leisure with enthusiasm for it meant they could devote full time to their gardening business.

Ten years ago the twins, who are married and live in separate houses in the same neighborhood, signed up for a free course in gardening offered by the city. They knew nothing about the scientific aspects of horticulture but they had long been interested in the appearance of their lawns.

They learned the fine points about seeding, reseeding, soil tending, fertilizing, shrub and tree pruning, and watering, and for three years they practiced and experimented with what they had been taught.

Then they let word get around that they were available to care for lawns in their community. They contracted to care for a neighbor's lawn, who in turn recommended them to someone else. Pretty soon they had all the work they could sandwich into their evenings and weekends.

"Lawn work interested us because we worked in the foundry," said Algia when I talked with him on the phone last evening. "This is about the dirtiest kind of work in industry and we felt our health demanded that we spend as much of our leisure time as possible out in the fresh air.

"We worked at the plant from 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and then went home, showered, changed our clothes, and spent two or three hours working on lawns for our customers. When we retired we had 15 folks on our list whose lawns we tended, and since we got from $10 to $15 a month from each it was a welcome addition to our income.

"Now that we're retired we can take on a few more customers. We have our pensions and can net $100 monthly apiece without forfeiting any of our Social Security.

What does lawn care involve? "When we take on a customer we agree to cut his grass once a week during the growing season, trim the shrubs and small trees twice a month, and in general keep his place looking neat and clean.

"We have a small truck, bring our own tools, and probably devote four or five hours a month to each job.

Are there lots of opportunities for gardners? "Oh yes, there's more work around than we can handle. Most gardening firms handle only big jobs. We're one of the few specializing in small yards."

Do they ever plan to retire? "Not until our health fails. We enjoy this kind of work and feel the fresh air and exercise are good for us. It keeps us out of mischief and the money permits us to enjoy with our families those extra comforts and pleasures that can mean so much to one's satisfaction."

If you would like a booklet "Employment Tips for Older People" write to Robert Petersen, Life Begins at Forty, c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents to cover handling costs.

One—Or Two—State Trade Schools OKd

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Monday voted to establish at least one and perhaps two additional state-financed and state-operated vocational technical schools during the 1965-67 biennium

The decision came on a 31-13 vote and touched off beginning arguments over where new schools should be located.

Facing lawmakers are bills providing for location at North Platte, Sidney, O'Neill, Norfolk, Ogallala and Broken Bow.

Monday's decision appeared to run counter to an earlier legislative determination approving a plan under which the state would provide limited financial assistance to schools established through local initiative.

Ground Rules

Approved after first-round floor debate 10 days ago were bills establishing ground rules for area trade schools and providing for maximum state aid of $100,000 per biennium per school. Total state assistance could not exceed $500,000 in any biennium

Nebraska's only state-operated and funded vocational technical school is located at Milford.

Sen. Lester Harsh of Bartley proposed that the Legislature agree to establish one more such school during the present biennium.

State costs, he said, would however between $1 million and $3 million per school.

Sen Jules Burbach of Crofton won 28-19 approval of an amendment which provides that the state may establish two new schools during the 1965-67 period.

Questioned

Sens Maurice Kremer of Aurora and Ross Rasmussen of Hooper questioned the Unicameral's adoption of the Harsh plan in view of its earlier acceptance of the area concept

"Which direction are we going to go?" Kremer asked With the area concept and state assistance, Nebraska might develop four or five additional schools, Kremer said, rather than only acquiring one or two via the Harsh method

Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha argued that the state cannot afford to establish new schools patterned after Milford, "and there is not the need for it that you might think there is."

Students can learn better by on-the-job training in business and industry, he said.

The Harsh plan also presents a built-in problem of fiscal irresponsibility, Batchelder contended: "Show me a senator with a state-operated school in his district, and I'll show you a spendthrift."

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings argued that the Legislature needs more facts before it could consider "strapping the taxpayer with $6 million more in expenditures in the next two years."

'State Responsibility'

Vocational technical training beyond high school is "a state responsibility," Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth declared.

"Can the state afford it?" Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud queried.

Sen. Stanley Matzke of Milford said the state's only trade school has about $1 million invested in its physical plant and another $500,000 in equipment, costs which might be comparable at a new school.

Milford's waiting list of applicants has reached 900, Matzke said.

Lawmakers were engaged in debate over LB480, proposing a North Platte location, when they adjourned for the day.

JULY 12 TRIPLE BIRTHDAY NOW

St. Louis (AP)—July 12 is becoming one big birthday party for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Oestereich of suburban Glasgow Village

Their first child, Pamela, was born July 12, 1957, their second, Sandra, was born July 12, 1959. Monday, July 12, Mrs. Oestereich gave birth to an eight-pound, one-ounce boy, Jeffrey Craig.

"We usually just cut a cake in half," Oestereich said of the birthday parties, "but now it looks as if we will have to slice it into thirds."

City Continues Housing Code Revision Study

Mayor Dean Petersen and the City Council Monday continued to review Lincoln's minimum standard housing code with an eye toward possible revisions

During the morning session the council concentrated on provisions in the existing code regarding light, ventilation, heating, sanitary maintenance and new dwellings.

Council members said before any revisions are approved there would be additional council meetings, talks with city health and fire officials and a public hearing.

Disagreement

There was some disagreement among the council members on different aspects of the city code which was passed in 1956 and is now only being enforced on new dwelling units

Councilman John Comstock spoke against any major changes in the code that would effect many Lincoln families.

Councilman Ervin Peterson, a Lincoln builder, objected to many of the proposed revisions and said that he would not vote for any revisions that were not basic

Some Revision

However, council members indicated that eventually some type of revised minimum housing code would be passed, and trailers, now excluded, would come under the revised code

The council had earlier informally agreed to strengthen the existing code and included salaries for 2 additional housing inspectors in the 1965-66 city budget as a part of getting federal funds for the proposed workable program in Lincoln.

Mayor Peterson said that the city now has all types of homes that do not meet minimum housing standards.

People Harmed

"I am running into situations each week where persons are being harmed by lack of proper standards," he said.

The mayor added that most of the trouble is being caused by people who divide houses into apartments. "If we don't do something about these units, the neighborhoods will continue to deteriorate," he told the council.

However, Comstock said, "the big percentage of trouble is that a few people in town own a bunch of houses, rent them and don't spend a dime on them for repairs."

Sign Survey To Be Done By September

Councilman Carroll Thompson said Monday that he will have a review of city sign ordinances completed by Sept. 1.

Thompson and city officials have met with representatives of the sign industry in efforts to remove conflicts and update the existing ordinances regulating outdoor advertising and subdivision signs.

He asked the building inspection department to "hold" on the enforcement of the present laws until the review is completed.

Building Inspector Larry Spahn said his department would grant new sign applications under the terms of existing ordinances, but would not apply present law to signs already installed.

City Approves Audit Agreement

The City Council has approved an agreement between the city and the accounting firm of VanBoskirk-Fry-Trumble and Associates to audit the records of several city departments kept from Sept. 1, 1964 to Aug. 31 of this year.

The firm will audit the records of the office of city treasurer, auditor, engineer and building inspection for a fee of $3,300 and the municipal gasoline and scales department for $275.

Draft Of Revised Tax Laws Readied In Wake Of Ruling

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A rough draft of a bill revising state tax laws invalidated by Friday's Supreme Court decision will be ready for review Wednesday by taxing officials and their legal advisors.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Homer agreed in a 2½-hour meeting Monday that legislation must be passed during the current Unicameral session to provide persons with greater opportunities to be heard in penalty matters.

Also discussed were procedures under which money collected under the invalidated law would be refunded to taxpayers.

Participating in the discussion were State Tax Commissioner George Dworak and his special counsel, William Peters; Deputy Douglas County Atty. William Ryan, Deputy Lancaster County Atty. Floyd Sterns ,Lancaster County Treasurer C. E. Berg and Lancaster County Assessor Arthur M. Davis.

$1 Million Collected

The court, in striking down the 1961 law as unconstitutional, was especially critical of its inadequate provisions for notice of penalty and opportunity for hearing and appeal.

Hamilton said the new legislation would strengthen the due process provisions of Nebraska's tax penalty laws.

He said it was generally agreed that no new legislation is needed to authorize taxing officials to return the money collected under the invalid law. Funds can be returned in response to claims filed by each taxpayer, he explained.

Hamilton said one bill with a number of sections could be writtn to take care of the problems involved as well as repeal several overlapping sections.

Critical

It is believed more than $1 million in penalties has been collected under the law which was passed by the 1961 Legislature after old penalty laws had been declared unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court Friday upheld the Douglas County District Court decision in a lawsuit brought by Benson and Ruth Bachus on behalf of themselves and 2,846 other Douglas County taxpayers similarly affected.

In tossing out the law, the Supreme Court also took a swipe at all Nebraska laws dealing with personal property, and Gov. Frank Morrison announced he will appoint a "blue ribbon committee" to make a long-range study of needs for new laws to clarify property tax enforcement and administration.

Hamilton said the taxpayers would be free to seek refunds in accordance with the Supreme Court ruling as soon as it becomes final on July 29.

He said Douglas County officials have not yet decided whether to seek a new hearing in the case.

Auto Parts, Tools, Cash Are Taken

About $600 worth of auto parts and tools and $400 in cash have been stolen from two different places, police said.

The auto parts and tools were stolen from a garage at the rear of the Peter Pan Store, 20th and P.

At the Copper Kettle Restaurant, 233 So. 13th, manager Charles A. Sandling told police that a locked bank night depository bag containing $400 was stolen from a filing cabinet in his office.

Minden Asks To Sink Two Wells

The City of Minden has asked authority to sink two municipal water wells near the north city limits. State Water Resources Director Dan S. Jones said Monday.

Jones said the wells, located near the Minden airport, would have a maximum pumping capacity of 864,000 gallons a day.

The application said the daily average would be 812,000 gallons a day.

The estimated cost for the wells, pumps, pipeline, treatment plant and other facilities was listed at $411,000

Jones said one objection to the application was filed by a landowner in the vicinity of the proposed wells, but was later withdrawn.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Nebraskans Push Mead For Proton Accelerator

Washington (AP)—Arguments favoring the former Mead, Neb., Army Ordnance Depot as the site for the proposed $280 million Atomic Energy Commission proton accelerator laboratory were presented Monday.

An eight-member Omaha-Lincoln delegation, accompanied by some members of Congress presented Mead's case before Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the AEC and Dr. Paul W. McDaniel, director of the AEC Division of Research.

Last month supporters of the Mead site submitted a brochure to the AEC emphasizing advantages of the site. Monday's delegation followed up with an oral discussion and a film about Mead.

The land needed for the laboratory can be obtained without cost. The group also emphasized the central location, adequate transportation and educational facilities, excellent community environment and available electric power.

The delegation included Tom Pansing, president of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce; Louis Somberg, president of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce and Dr. Emerson Jones of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, a science consultant to Gov. Frank B. Morrison.

Others were John Fraker and George Cook of Lincoln and James Hanry, Matt Jaap and John Shonsey of Omaha, all Chamber of Commerce officials or members.

Also present were Sen. Carl T. Curtis, Rep. Glenn Cunningham, and Rep. Clair Callan, and an aide of Sen. Roman L. Hruska.

State Trying To Fill Hastings Hospital Post

The State Department of Public Institutions Monday launched a multi-state search for a psychiatrist to replace Dr. Finn Lunde ,who last week announced his resignation as superintendent of Hastings State Hospital.

Institutions Director George Morris said there may be a problem in finding a replacement.

"It's always difficult to find young psychiatrists," Morris said. "They're at a premium. 'I'm hopeful, however, we can find one before Dr. Lunde leaves."

Leaves July 31

Dr. Lunde, 37, will depart July 31 for California where he will serve as chief of professional education at a state mental hospital.

Morris said his department is looking for a young, fully trained psychiatrist who will be able to work closely with an assistant superintendent for business administration.

The new administrative post was created by the Legislature earlier this month to free the head psychiatrist to concentrate on the medical program. Morris said he has received nine applications for the administrative position.

Both Jobs

Dr. Lunde operated both as medical and administrative head of the hospital.

Morris said he is confident Dr. Lunde's replacement can be secured for the $21,200 annual salary paid the Norwegian-born psychiatrist.

"The challenge of the job will get them more than salary," Morris said.

Fight Against Mental Illness Will Continue

State Health Director E. A. Rogers said Monday the Health Department will continue on a permanent basis its efforts to implement a statewide program to combat mental illness.

He said K .Patrick Okura will head a new section of the department's Community Services Division which is designed to plan and evaluate a statewide mental health program supported by local communities.

Dr. Rogers said the planning section will work closely with the department's section on hospital and medical facilities to map construction plans for community mental health and mental retardation centers.

The Community Services Division in 1963 was assigned the task of developing a comprehensive long-range plan for mental health services and programs. The plan was unanimously endorsed by the second Nebraska Congress on Mental Health and Mental Illness last month.

Dr. Rogers said the new planning section will work with citizens' groups and public and private agencies throughout the state to find ways to implement the plan.

Kearney Training School Leaders See Penitentiary

Some 30 teen-agers from the Boys Training School at Kearney visited the State Penitentiary Monday.

Members of the school's student council, the boys ate lunch at the prison, viewed workaday life at the institution, and were briefed on the necessity for rigid rules and regulations.

"I think seeing the inside of the Penitentiary is good for them," said Kearney Supt. William Ettinger.

"Just seeing the Penitentiary reinforces their desire to stay away from it."

The day's schedule also included a visit to the Legislature and a supper stop at the Girls Training School at Geneva.

Draft Of Revised Tax Laws Readied In Wake Of Ruling

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A rough draft of a bill revising state tax laws invalidated by Friday's Supreme Court decision will be ready for review Wednesday by taxing officials and their legal advisors.

Ford, McCulloch Lash Back At LBJ

. . . 'LYNDON-COME-LATELY'

Washington (UPI) — Ranked House Republican leaders Monday lashed back at President Johnson for his criticism of their tactics on the voting rights bill. They angrily dubbed him a "Lyndon-come-lately" to the civil rights cause.

House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and Ohio's Rep. William M. McCulloch, senior Republican on the Judiciary Committee, held a special news conference to reply to Johnson's weekend statement condemning a substitute bill they offered during last week's debate.

Retorting to the President's claim that their proposal would have "damaged and diluted" the right of Americans to vote, they cited Johnson's votes against civil rights legislation as a House member and senator.

The two Republicans also charged that the President "tolerates no constructive differences of opinion. As such he is a dangerous advocate of one-party government in this country."

In a joint statement, Ford and McCulloch said Johnson had let his "political instincts get the better of his sense of fairness and his sense of history" in making the accusation. They added:

"The President embraces a form of consensus which in effect says 'I'm right. Everyone else is wrong. I'm for good. You're for evil.' "

Their statement also declared: "The President is obviously sensitive to his own congressional record on civil rights.

"From 1940 through 1960 as a member of the House and Senate, Lyndon Johnson voted against civil rights on 78% of 50 meaningful roll call votes. Before 1957, he voted against civil rights 100%."

In summary, Ford and McCulloch said Johnson had "traveled a crooked path" in changing from his position as a Texas congressman to an advocate of civil rights.

The Republican substitute bill was rejected by a close vote shortly before the House voted approval of a voting rights measure along lines advocated by the administration.

Under the GOP proposal, new federal authority would have applied to any state where discrimination was demonstrated by complaints of at least 25 voters.

The administration bill is aimed essentially at Southern states. Its anti-discrimination machinery would be triggered in states and localities where less than 50% of the voting age population was registered or voted in the 1964 presidential election.

Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts criticized the Ford-McCulloch attack and and defended Johnson's statement.

"I would expect that from my Republican friends," he said. "Certainly the President has the right of free speech, the same as anyone else has. I think his comment was fair under the circumstances.

McCULLOCH . . . joins Ford in criticism.

Ex-Diplomat Godoy In Dominican Talks

Santo Domingo (UPI) — Former diplomat Hector Garcia Godoy, the Inter-American Peace Team's candidate for provisional president, Monday joined mediators in talks with rival Dominican leaders aimed at settling the country's political crisis.

Garcia Godoy, who under the peace team's formula, would head a provisional government pending the holding of general elections, said he had the support of both the rebel and junta regimes for the office.

His first formal appearance as an avowed candidate came Monday when he accompanied peace team members to a conference with junta chief Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera and leading Dominican military men. It was understood Imbert reiterated his demand for deporattion of all known Communists from the country and exile for five years of all military officers among the rebels who refuse to surrender before the provisional government is installed.

While the meeting with Imbert was in progress, rebels held a mass rally with markedly anti-American overtnoes in downtown independence square commemorating the 41st anniversary of the departure of U.S. Marines from Santo Domingo.

The day also marked the centenary of the departure of Spanish troops from the country in 1865. Cheering sections lustily chanted anti-Yankee slogans.

The new round of peace team talks started Monday marked a new phase in efforts by the Organization of American States (OAS) to find a political solution to the 12-weeks-old Dominican crisis.

Bogalusa Rights Chiefs Agree With Governor

Bogalusa, La. (AP) — Two civil rights leaders agreed late Monday to recommend their followers abide by a request from the governor for a 30-day cooling-off period in this racially troubled town.

The Negro leaders met with Gov. John McKeithen for 90 minutes at Baton Rouge after city and state police here turned back an attempted civil rights march on city hall during the afternoon. Police said they feared the march might touch off further violence.

McKeithen sent his private plane to Bogalusa to take A. Z. Young and Robert Hicks, president and vice president, respectively, of the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League, to the capital.

Hurt State

"Gov. McKeithen invited us to meet with him and we have done this," Young said in a statement on emerging from the governor's office. "We are in agreement that the Bogalusa demonstrations are hurting this state and are increasing bitterness between the races . . .

"We have agreed to return to Bogalusa and recommend to our people that we will abide by the governor's request."

A uniformed state trooper carrying a sawed off shotgun escorted the two Negroes from the skyscraper capitol to their plane for the return flight here.

Young said he agreed to the 30-day suspension of demonstrations to permit an attempt to settle racial differences "by intelligent discussion across the conference table."

Since Spring

Since last spring, the Voters League has used picketing, marches and rallies to demand equal job opportunities for Negroes and to protest alleged police brutality. A Negro deputy sheriff has been killed and a white heckler wounded in two of several shooting incidents that marked the demonstrations.

A group of Bogalusa businessmen told Mayor Jesse Cutrer Monday the marches were hurting business here. The group asked that future marches be rerouted from the business district.

There was no violence as Monday's march was turned back in its efforts to go through the business section to city hall.

Air Force Not Alarmed With Many Widespread Flying Saucer Claims

Washington (UPI) — The Air Force refused to get alarmed Monday over a rash of recent claims of flying saucer sightings over Portugal, the South Pole, Japan and Latin America.

A spokesman for the Air Force, which keeps track of reports of unidentified flying objects (UFO's), said it had no evidence of unexplained activity.

He added, as the Air Force has in the past, that most such claims have turned out upon scientific examination to be natural phenomena, weather balloons or meteors common in summer months.

Since 1957

On the other hand, a spokesman for the National Investigation Committee on Aerial Phenomena — a non-government research organization— said that UFO sightings have shown their biggest increase since 1957.

Richard Hall, acting director of the non-profit outfit, said: "It is interesting that the Air Force is unable to find a pattern because it is staring them in the face."

The latest flying saucer report came Monday from Orporto, Portugal, where a villager and wife said they saw an object overhead which looked like a "deep dish turned upside down."

Noise Stopped

They said that radio static increased tremendously while the object hovered over their village. "The noise stopped as soon as the object disappeared," the man said.

The Air Force collects data on reported sightings only over the continental United States. The reports listed recently have all come from abroad.

Hall said that last Tuesday, British and Argentine scientists in the Antarctic reported a UFO which "sent their geometric instruments wild."

Alongside Plane

He also reported that last March 21 a Japanese airline pilot said that an unidentified object flew alongside his plane for 55 miles, violently affecting his craft's direction finder.

Witnesses in the Azores off Portugal reported seeing a UFO overhead at an altitude of 33,000 feet last week. There were reports that electromagnetic clocks at Santa Maria airport stopped for 10 minutes during the incident.

One spectator was quoted as saying the object was a "white cylinder which sometimes looked like a balloon."

Portuguese, French and British navy officials in the area said they had launched no balloons.

Other unidentified flying objects were reported last week over Argentina and Uruguay.

ALCOA Plant Blast Injures Two Workers

Pittsburgh (UPI) — An explosion rocked one building of a sprawling aluminum powder and flake plant along the Allegheny River near here Monday night.

Two men were burned critically. They were identified as citizens general hospital in New Kensington, Pa., as James F. Keesey, 56, of Leechburg, Pa., and Fred M. Imm, 47, of New Kensington.

The explosion was followed by fire which destroyed the building. The rest of the plant was intact.

The plant, owned and operated by the Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA), is located on the Allegheny River at Logans Ferry, Pa., about 15 miles north of here.

Never Too Old

Magazine Raps State Senators

New York (UPI) — The newspaper trade magazine "Editor and Publisher" Monday took the Nebraska Legislature to task editorially for its vote on a resolution to scold the Nebraska press for "indiscriminate and irresponsible" use of its freedoms.

"It really wasn't very funny," the editorial said.

It noted that one person voted for the resolution, two opposed it and 46 senators abstained.

"What was the matter with those 46 that they were so afraid to stand up and be counted on a resoltuion that was introduced in all seriousness by two senators?" the editorial asked.

"The sentiment of the Legislature obviously was against the measure or the result would have been different," it continued. "Then why didn't the senators say so? Surely, the press of Nebraska deserves better treatment than that."

Election Cost Bill Speared On 5-2 Vote

The Legislature's Government Committee Monday killed by a 5-2 vote LB916, which would have extended the provisions of law for filing statements of campaign expenses.

The measure, sponsored by Gov. Frank Morrison, would require the expense statements of candidates in city, village, township and school elections.

The bill and a companion measure from the governor, LB915, were given public hearing prior to the Fourth of July recess.

LB915 would require that the name and address of the printer and the name and address of the person who ordered the printing appear on campaign literature.

A motion Monday to send the bill to the floor received a 4-3 vote but needed five affirmative votes.

LYREBIRD LAYS EGG

Melbourne, Australia (AP) — There's hushed excitement at an Australian sanctuary 40 miles outside Melbourne: a lyrebird has laid an egg and has set about hatching it.

This is the second time since the turn of the century that a lyrebird has laid an egg in captivity.

The new egg, about the size of a bantam chicken's, is expected to hatch in about six weeks.

The lyrebird is about the size of a grouse, and it gets its name from the 16 feathers on the tail of the male.

When the tail is spread, during mating, the feathers take the shape of a lyre.

. . . 'LYNDON-COME-LATELY'

Washington (UPI) — Rankled House Republican leaders Monday lashed back at President Johnson for his criticism of their tactics on the voting rights bill. They angrily dubbed him a "Lyndon-come-lately" to the civil rights cause.

House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and Ohio's Rep. William M. McCulloch, senior Republican on the Judiciary Committee, held a special news conference to reply to Johnson's weekend statement condemning a substitute bill they offered during last week's debate.

Retorting to the President's claim that their proposal would have "damaged and diluted" the right of Americans to vote, they cited Johnson's votes against civil rights legislation as a House member and senator.

The two Republicans also charged that the President "tolerates no constructive differences of opinion. As such he is a dangerous advocate of one-party government in this country."

In a joint statement, Ford and McCulloch said Johnson had let his "political instincts get the better of his sense of fairness and his sense of history" in making the accusation. They added:

"The President embraces a form of consensus which in effect says 'I'm right. Everyone else is wrong. I'm for good. You're for evil.' "

Their statement also declared: "The President is obviously sensitive to his own congressional record on civil rights.

"From 1940 through 1960 as a member of the House and Senate, Lyndon Johnson voted against civil rights on 78% of 50 meaningful roll call votes. Before 1957, he voted against civil rights 100%."

In summary, Ford and McCulloch said Johnson had "traveled a crooked path" in changing from his position as a Texas congressman to an advocate of civil rights.

The Republican substitute bill was rejected by a close vote shortly before the House voted approval of a voting rights measure along lines advocated by the administration.

Under the GOP proposal, new federal authority would have applied to any state where discrimination was demonstrated by complaints of at least 25 voters.

The administration bill is aimed essentially at Southern states. Its anti-discrimination machinery would be triggered in states and localities where less than 50% of the voting age population was registered or voted in the 1964 presidential election.

Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts criticized the Ford-McCulloch attack and and defended Johnson's statement.

"I would expect that from my Republican friends," he said. "Certainly the President has the right of free speech, the same as anyone else has. I think his comment was fair under the circumstances.

McCULLOCH . . . joins Ford in criticism.

Ex-Diplomat Godoy In Dominican Talks

Santo Domingo (UPI) — Former diplomat Hector Garcia Godoy, the Inter-American Peace Team's candidate for provisional president, Monday joined mediators in talks with rival Dominican leaders aimed at settling the country's political crisis.

Garcia Godoy, who under the peace team's formula, would head a provisional government pending the holding of general elections, said he had the support of both the rebel and junta regimes for the office.

His first formal appearance as an avowed candidate came Monday when he accompanied peace team members to a conference with junta chief Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera and leading Dominican military men. It was understood Imbert reiterated his demand for deporattion of all known Communists from the country and exile for five years of all military officers among the rebels who refuse to surrender before the provisional government is installed.

While the meeting with Imbert was in progress, rebels held a mass rally with markedly anti-American overtnoes in downtown independence square commemorating the 41st anniversary of the departure of U.S. Marines from Santo Domingo.

The day also marked the centenary of the departure of Spanish troops from the country in 1865. Cheering sections lustily chanted anti-Yankee slogans.

The new round of peace team talks started Monday marked a new phase in efforts by the Organization of American States (OAS) to find a political solution to the 12-weeks-old Dominican crisis.

Bogalusa Rights Chiefs Agree With Governor

Bogalusa, La. (AP) — Two civil rights leaders agreed late Monday to recommend their followers abide by a request from the governor for a 30-day cooling-off period in this racially troubled town.

The Negro leaders met with Gov. John McKeithen for 90 minutes at Baton Rouge after city and state police here turned back an attempted civil rights march on city hall during the afternoon. Police said they feared the march might touch off further violence.

McKeithen sent his private plane to Bogalusa to take A. Z. Young and Robert Hicks, president and vice president, respectively, of the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League, to the capital.

Hurt State

"Gov. McKeithen invited us to meet with him and we have done this," Young said in a statement on emerging from the governor's office. "We are in agreement that the Bogalusa demonstrations are hurting this state and are increasing bitterness between the races . . .

"We have agreed to return to Bogalusa and recommend to our people that we will abide by the governor's request."

A uniformed state trooper carrying a sawed off shotgun escorted the two Negroes from the skyscraper capitol to their plane for the return flight here.

Young said he agreed to the 30-day suspension of demonstrations to permit an attempt to settle racial differences "by intelligent discussion across the conference table."

Since Spring

Since last spring, the Voters League has used picketing, marches and rallies to demand equal job opportunities for Negroes and to protest alleged police brutality. A Negro deputy sheriff has been killed and a white heckler wounded in two of several shooting incidents that marked the demonstrations.

A group of Bogalusa businessmen told Mayor Jesse Cutrer Monday the marches were hurting business here. The group asked that future marches be rerouted from the business district.

There was no violence as Monday's march was turned back in its efforts to go through the business section to city hall.

Air Force Not Alarmed With Many Widespread Flying Saucer Claims

Washington (UPI) — The Air Force refused to get alarmed Monday over a rash of recent claims of flying saucer sightings over Portugal, the South Pole, Japan and Latin America.

A spokesman for the Air Force, which keeps track of reports of unidentified flying objects (UFO's), said it had no evidence of unexplained activity.

He added, as the Air Force has in the past, that most such claims have turned out upon scientific examination to be natural phenomena, weather balloons or meteors common in summer months.

Since 1957

On the other hand, a spokesman for the National Investigation Committee on Aerial Phenomena — a non-government research organization—said that UFO sightings have shown their biggest increase since 1957.

Richard Hall, acting director of the non-profit outfit, said: "It is interesting that the Air Force is unable to find a pattern because it is staring them in the face."

The latest flying saucer report came Monday from Orporto, Portugal, where a villager and wife said they saw an object overhead which looked like a "deep dish turned upside down."

Noise Stopped

They said that radio static increased tremendously while the object hovered over their village. "The noise stopped as soon as the object disappeared," the man said.

The Air Force collects data on reported sightings only over the continental United States. The reports listed recently have all come from abroad.

Hall said that last Tuesday, British and Argentine scientists in the Antarctic reported a UFO which "sent their geometric instruments wild."

Alongside Plane

He also reported that last March 21 a Japanese airline pilot said that an unidentified object flew alongside his plane for 55 miles, violently affecting his craft's direction finder.

Witnesses in the Azores off Portugal reported seeing a UFO overhead at an altitude of 33,000 feet last week. There were reports that electromagnetic clocks at Santa Maria airport stopped for 10 minutes during the incident.

One spectator was quoted as saying the object was a "white cylinder which sometimes looked like a balloon."

Portuguese, French and British navy officials in the area said they had launched no balloons.

Other unidentified flying objects were reported last week over Argentina and Uruguay.

ALCOA Plant Blast Injures Two Workers

Pittsburgh (UPI) — An explosion rocked one building of a sprawling aluminum powder and flake plant along the Allegheny River near here Monday night.

Two men were burned critically. They were identified as citizens general hospital in New Kensington, Pa., as James F. Keesey, 56, of Leechburg, Pa., and Fred M. Imm, 47, of New Kensington.

The explosion was followed by fire which destroyed the building. The rest of the plant was intact.

The plant, owned and operated by the Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA), is located on the Allegheny River at Logans Ferry, Pa., about 15 miles north of here.

Magazine Raps State Senators

New York (UPI) — The newspaper trade magazine "Editor and Publisher" Monday took the Nebraska Legislature to task editorially for its vote on a resolution to scold the Nebraska press for "indiscriminate and irresponsible" use of its freedoms.

"It really wasn't very funny," the editorial said.

It noted that one person voted for the resolution, two opposed it and 46 senators abstained.

"What was the matter with those 46 that they were so afraid to stand up and be counted on a resoltuion that was introduced in all seriousness by two senators?" the editorial asked.

"The sentiment of the Legislature obviously was against the measure or the result would have been different," it continued. "Then why didn't the senators say so? Surely, the press of Nebraska deserves better treatment than that."

Election Cost Bill Speared On 5-2 Vote

The Legislature's Government Committee Monday killed by a 5-2 vote LB916, which would have extended the provisions of law for filing statements of campaign expenses.

The measure, sponsored by Gov. Frank Morrison, would require the expense statements of candidates in city, village, township and school elections.

The bill and a companion measure from the governor, LB915, were given public hearing prior to the Fourth of July recess.

LB915 would require that the name and address of the printer and the name and address of the person who ordered the printing appear on campaign literature.

A motion Monday to send the bill to the floor received a 4-3 vote but needed five affirmative votes.

'Non-Partisan' Referendum Campaign Plan Termed 'Illogical'

Supporters of an income tax for Nebraska said Monday the proposal that partisan politics be kept out of the referendum campaign to place the tax act on the ballot is "illogical and nonsensical."

They said Nebraska's political parties and all persons interested in taxation should speak out for or against the income tax so that the people will know where they stand.

"To tell the people and the parties to remain silent while a massive campaign is carried on to place the issue on the November, 1966, ballot is to propose only one side be heard," said Sen. Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud, speaker of the Legislature and a strong supporter of a flat-rate income tax.

"This suggestion is contrary to the very foundation of our democratic process: that persons and parties should be free to state their positions."

Governor Morrison and leaders of the petition drive have urged that politics not be injected into the referendum effort—at least not until sufficient signatures have been obtained.

But Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln, chief sponsor of the income tax act, noted that the governor and the others are opposed to a broad-based tax system and, therefore, don't want the campaign sidetracked.

"It's a little hard for me to see why an income tax is so much different than other controversial issues when discussed before the people," said Bauer.

"There is no reason this should be a non-political issue. What are politics and political parties for other than to take stands on controversial issues?

"It's a little hard for me to see why the income tax should be quarantined or have a hands off tag on it."

Bauer also said that "it is a little strange" that top workers of both parties should spearhead the referendum campaign when the governor has asked that the tax issue be devoid of politics.

The statewide petition drive is being led by Democratic National Committeeman Marvin Werve and Richard Herman, who was a regional campaign manager for Sen. Barry Goldwater last year. Both are from Omaha.

Bowen said the income tax act and the effort to place it on the ballot are "very important to the future of this state and its economy. To propose that discussion be limited is illogical and nonsensical."

Sen. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont, another supporter of the tax act, said that Morrison realizes if politics are injected into the referendum campaign, the drive might fail.

"The governor is against an income tax and it is only natural that he doesn't want those in favor of it to express their viewpoint," he said.

Omahans Induce Senators To Kill Sarpy Co. Annexation Proposal

Douglas County senators finally induced the Legislature Monday to kill a tortured annexation bill which Sarpy County interests had sought and which Omaha interests had resisted.

After receiving 24-13 approval on general file last month, the measure, LB436, was killed on select file Monday by a 30-16 vote.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha made the kill motion.

The bill provides that when Omaha annexes any part of a municipality in an adjoining county, an approving vote of persons in the area to be annexed is required.

Douglas County senators said the bill would "lock in" the city of Omaha and prevent the city's growth, to the detriment of the entire state.

Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion, chief introducer of LB436, again led the defense of it. He charged Omaha with high-handed disregard of law and a wish to grab Sarpy County land. He called attention to some Douglas County resistance to the mandatory property reappraisal whereas Sarpy County is going through with the appraisal and said the upshot could be taxation of annexed Sarpy County property at the prescribed 35% level while Douglas County rests at a 27% level.

Payne drew support from Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who said Omaha's only interest in expanding into Sarpy County is to collect taxes on more property. He said Omaha ought to be prohibited from taking over any city of 10,000 or less, whether in Douglas County or outside it. He said he fears that in 10 or 15 years Omaha may take over Scottsbluff by means of some kind of a "shoestring strip."

Carpenter said the only reason Omaha has not annexed Ak-Sar-Ben's property in Omaha, although it's virtually surrounded by the city, is because it cannot collect taxes on the property.

'Non-Partisan' Referendum Campaign Plan Termed 'Illogical'

Supporters of an income tax for Nebraska said Monday the proposal that partisan politics be kept out of the referendum campaign to place the tax act on the ballot is "illogical and nonsensical."

They said Nebraska's political parties and all persons interested in taxation should speak out for or against the income tax so that the people will know where they stand.

"To tell the people and the parties to remain silent while a massive campaign is carried on to place the issue on the November, 1966, ballot is to propose only one side be heard," said Sen. Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud, speaker of the Legislature and a strong supporter of a flat-rate income tax.

"This suggestion is contrary to the very foundation of our democratic process: that persons and parties should be free to state their positions."

Governor Morrison and leaders of the petition drive have urged that politics not be injected into the referendum effort—at least not until sufficient signatures have been obtained.

But Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln, chief sponsor of the income tax act, noted that the governor and the others are opposed to a broad-based tax system and, therefore, don't want the campaign sidetracked.

"It's a little hard for me to see why an income tax is so much different than other controversial issues when discussed before the people," said Bauer.

"There is no reason this should be a non-political issue. What are politics and political parties for other than to take stands on controversial issues?

"It's a little hard for me to see why the income tax should be quarantined or have a hands off tag on it."

Bauer also said that "it is a little strange" that top workers of both parties should spearhead the referendum campaign when the governor has asked that the tax issue be devoid of politics.

The statewide petition drive is being led by Democratic National Committeeman Marvin Werve and Richard Herman, who was a regional campaign manager for Sen. Barry Goldwater last year. Both are from Omaha.

Bowen said the income tax act and the effort to place it on the ballot are "very important to the future of this state and its economy. To propose that discussion be limited is illogical and nonsensical."

Sen. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont, another supporter of the tax act, said that Morrison realizes if politics are injected into the referendum campaign, the drive might fail.

"The governor is against an income tax and it is only natural that he doesn't want those in favor of it to express their viewpoint," he said.

Omahans Induce Senators To Kill Sarpy Co. Annexation Proposal

Douglas County senators finally induced the Legislature Monday to kill a tortured annexation bill which Sarpy County interests had sought and which Omaha interests had resisted.

After receiving 24-13 approval on general file last month, the measure, LB436, was killed on select file Monday by a 30-16 vote.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha made the kill motion.

The bill provides that when Omaha annexes any part of a municipality in an adjoining county, an approving vote of persons in the area to be annexed is required.

Douglas County senators said the bill would "lock in" the city of Omaha and prevent the city's growth, to the detriment of the entire state.

Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion, chief introducer of LB436, again led the defense of it. He charged Omaha with high-handed disregard of law and a wish to grab Sarpy County land. He called attention to some Douglas County resistance to the mandatory property reappraisal whereas Sarpy County is going through with the appraisal and said the upshot could be taxation of annexed Sarpy County property at the prescribed 35% level while Douglas County rests at a 27% level.

Payne drew support from Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who said Omaha's only interest in expanding into Sarpy County is to collect taxes on more property. He said Omaha ought to be prohibited from taking over any city of 10,000 or less, whether in Douglas County or outside it. He said he fears that in 10 or 15 years Omaha may take over Scottsbluff by means of some kind of a "shoestring strip."

Carpenter said the only reason Omaha has not annexed Ak - Sar - Ben's property in Omaha, although it's virtually surrounded by the city, is because it cannot collect taxes on the property.

Ak-Sar-Ben honors Nebraska's pioneer farm families

The many families who have lived on, and worked the same Nebraska land for many generations, form a traditional core for all Nebraska to grow on. Ak-Sar-Ben believes these families should be honored and encouraged. Each year, in association with Nebraska's County Fair Managers Association, Ak-Sar-Ben presents the "Pioneer Farmer" awards. These awards recognize families who have owned the same land for a hundred or more years. The Pioneer Farm Award honorees receive an engraved plaque, a framed certificate and a gate post marker to point out to the world a home of which Nebraska is proud.

What does the American FINAL/FILTER* really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasolines pick up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER blocks out contaminants right at the pump nozzle. Consult your Doctor about Vitamin-Fortified Foods

When pasteurized milk was first introduced to the public years ago, one violent objection was raised to pasteurization as a requirement of the law:

Pasteurization destroyed the vitamin C in milk.

And now Roberts Dairy is able to replace the vitamin C destroyed by pasteurization. Each eight ounce glass of 2 plus Daily C Milk Product contains the full daily adult minimum requirement of vitamin C.

Content is checked by laboratory test. And the restoration of vitamin C as in raw milk appears to do something to the flavor of milk which most people like.

What does vitamin C do for you? Nutritionists will tell you that it is essential to robust health. The question is the extent of its value, not its necessity to be fully well.

Recently an article in "Reader's Digest" suggested some unexpected benefits. Before relating these statements to yourself, however, we recommend that you consult your physician.

Consult your Physician

In fact, we suggest that you consult your physician about any fortified food you may be giving your family, including ours.

Recent press releases should indicate clearly enough why we make this suggestion.

In fortifying 2 plus Daily C Milk Product, Roberts Dairy shows the restraint necessary to protect your health — with enough vitamin-mineral fortification, but not too much.

Available at your Store or Door

Vitamin C will not endure in milk indefinitely. We do not pretend to know the shelf-life of vitamin fortification in other foods, but know that the shelf-life of vitamin C in milk is limited.

Consumer preference for Roberts milk assures fresh in-store product through rapid turnover. Were this not true, freshness of the product would have to be assured in some other fashion, possibly by dating.

We suggest that you ask your doctor about Roberts Dairy products.

In prenuptial courtesy to Miss Barbara Bieger, whose marriage to Aldon McDonald will be solemnized on Saturday, July 31, Mrs. May Wallen, Mrs. Mildred Stinson, Mrs. James Hershberger and Mrs. Verne A. Young, will be hostesses at a personal hower this evening at the home of Mrs. Wallen. Twenty guests have been invited.

Miss Bieger will be complimented on Tuesday evening, July 20, when the ladies of the Temple Baptist Church entertain in the church parlors.

The bride-elect will be presented with a miscellaneous shower.

NEWS

of the suburban areas

We are finding it hard to keep track of all the folks in the suburban areas. It has become quite evident that lakes lure many a resident from his home each weekend—and then, too there are those tempting fishing and vacation spots which add to the great mobility of suburban families.

But since all of the travel news sounds exciting we wish to see the journeys continue—that is, if everyone will promise to think such a promise could safely be made. And now to this mornings news.

TALK

of the town

Any morning with news is a good morning—So, this mid-July Tuesday dawn is an extra-good morning, and our news is all about guests, travelers—and babies.

And—we think we'll begin with the babies.

Last Saturday Dr. M. A. Basoco had a birthday anniversary. There isn't anything particularly unusual about a birthday — everyone has them. And to Dr. Basaco July 10 would have been just another Saturday—but for one thing—a new grandson.

Dr. and Mrs. Basoco had the word late on Saturday that David Miguel Basoco has arrived in Washington, D C The young man is the son of Lt. and Mrs. Richard Basoco who are on a tour of duty in Washington.

Another Beau Brummel in the nursery set is Michael Scott Hebert who put in an appearance on Wednesday, July 7. Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott Hebert, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio, and his mother is the former Linda Teal, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fritz Teal. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott Hebert of Omaha are the paternal grandparents.

Since we have mentioned the Teal family we'll continue with news of Dr. and Mrs. Fred W. Teal, III. Dr. and Mrs. Teal and their two daughters, Sally and Terri, stopped in Lincoln to spend two weeks with Dr. Teal's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Fritz Teal.

The family was on it way from St. Louis where Dr. Teal spent some time at Shriners hospital, to Denver where he will complete his work in orthopedics, working at both Denver General and Fitzsimmons hospitals.

No sooner were Dr. and Mrs. Teal, III and their daughters on their way to Denver, than other members of the Teal family began preparations for their summer holiday.

Mrs. Fritz Teal and her daughter, Mrs. Ronald Greene and the two small Greenes, Laurie and Karlyn, will take off today for the Teal summer home at Lake Vermillion, Minnesota. They will be accompanied by Dr. Teal's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Teal Ogden. And we musn't forget 'Beau' the Fritz Teals' Golden Retriever who, as usual, is going along.

At Lake Vermillion the family will be joined by Mrs. Ogden's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weldon and their children, Chuck, Debbie and Barbara Lou, of Southington, Conn.

The guests we had in mind are Mr. and Mrs. D. Rolland Martin of Carmel, Calif., who arrived a few days ago to spend a week in Lincoln. They are visiting Mr. Martin's mother, Mrs. M. R. Martin who, just in case you didn't know, now is residing at Hotel Lincoln. And of course, the visitors are spending some time with Mr. Martin's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Martin.

FIENE HEIGHTS

A high school reunion brought residents of Buffalo, Wyo., to Nebraska last week. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Witt, with their daughters Karen and Verna, stopped in Wayne for the reunion festivities before continuing on to Lincoln for a visit with relatives. The foursome spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Witt and then turned the wheels towards Kansas and a visit with more relatives.

But for now, let's go back a few days and pick up Mr. and Mrs. Fred Witt who have some Fourth of July guests to mention. OnMonday the Fifth, Mr. and Mrs. Witt entertained three Lincoln couples at a backyard party. Guests for the day were the couple's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dunham, their daughter, Emmagene and her fiance, Bill Roper, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Watson and daughter Linda.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hewitt took to the happy highways over the past holiday weekend. The two motored to Kenesaw for a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr and Mrs. Ed Shuriger and their two children Cindy and Barbara. When the couple returned to Lincoln on Monday, they were accompanied by their two granddaughters, and we hear that Cindy and Barbara will spend two weeks visiting at their grandparents home.

Plans have not been mapped out to the minute, but we do know that when Mr. and Mrs. Mel Wagner begin their vacation visitations through the midwest, Lincoln is to be their first stop-off. In Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Wagner and their daughters Christy and Tracy will be the house guests of Mrs. Wagner's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Garber. The traveling foursome from Grand Forks, N.D., will spend three or four days with Mr. and Mrs. Garber before moving on to Iowa and Minnesota where more relatives will be visited.

KIMBERLY HEIGHTS

We have word of an ocean traveler, or should we make that 'cruiser,' in the Kimberly Heights area. Homer Burt has been affiliated with the U.S. Navy for a grand total of 20 years as of 1965 and has, in that time, earned the rank of Chief Petty Officer. Now, what's all the cruising about —well, it seems that our sea adventurer spent two weeks out of the month of June on a navy cruise which took place off the coast of San Diego. Is it fun? Indeed it is, so we hear.

A GUEST

foursome in Lincoln

Mrs. Hussey and the three very young ladies arrived a few days ago with Mr. Hussey, and are visiting Mr. Hussey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hussey, and Mrs. Hussey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Britfelder.

Mr. Hussey, incidentally, attended the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

SURPRISE party honors bride-elect

Miss Martha Greehow of Montgomery, Ala., is a coed at the University of Nebraska. She also is a July bride-elect, and her marriage to John Hallgren will be solemnized on Friday, July 16.

Complimenting Miss Greenhow, Miss Mary Pierce, Miss Dixie Gottsch and Mrs. James Mitchell were party hostesses at the home of Mrs. Raymond Mitchell on Sunday afternoon. The affair was most unusual due to the fact that it was a surprise party that really was a surprise.

Twenty guests were invited and the soon-to-be bride was presented with a miscellaneous shower.

Altrusa Convention

The Lincoln Altrusa Club will be represented at the biennial convention of Altrusa International, Inc., to be held in Dallas, Tex., July 18-22, by its president, Mrs. Willard Dunigan; the immediate past president, Mrs. Phil Darby; Miss Beatrice White and Mrs. Loren Lamborn. More than 1000 executive and professional women, members of 532 Altrusa Clubs in 11 countries are expected to participate.

The convention body, with Mrs. Manuel DeBusk, president (a Dallas attorney), presiding, will evaluate critically the community service programs and projects sponsored by Altrusa Clubs and determine ways to improve and expand them.

Evening Wedding

For the wedding of Miss Mary Godwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Godwin, and Joseph Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brown, on Monday evening, July 12, bouquets of lavender chrysanthemums decorated the chancel of the First Church of the Nazarene. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. Larry Hindmand of Salina, Kan., and Mrs. Blaine Proffitt, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalists were Mrs. Tony Davis, and Robert L. Jones of Oklahoma City.

Long-skirted frocks of lavender crepe fashioned with overbodices of white lace were worn by Mrs. Robert L. Jones of Oklahoma City, the matron of honor; and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Larry Hindmand, Salina, Kan., and Miss Marge Pederson. They carried white chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was Kurt Wicker, and the ushers were W. T. Reeves, Bethany, Okla.; Larry Schlegelmilch, Carl Godwin and Gerald Brown.

The bride appeared in a gown of white lace and silk organza over taffeta. Natural scallops of the lace dotted with seed pearls edged the portrait neckline of the lace bodice, and the full organza skirt was bordered by a deep flounce of tulle which continued into a chapel train. Her illusion veil was held to the head by a crown of jeweled lace, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a nosegay of yellow roses.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Oklahoma City.

ABBY

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and miserable. The reason is I am 5 feet, 11 inches tall, and I am a girl! Everyone says I won't grow any more, but I have heard of people growing until they are 21, and if I grow any more I will kill myself. My father is six feet, six inches, and my mother is six feet one, so what did they expect? Midgets? Everyone has always told them they made a handsome couple, but I sure wish they had never met each other. I know it's hard to tell people not to fall in love and get married, but if they would only stop and think of their unborn children.

Sincerely yours,
"FREAK"

DEAR "FREAK": Come on, now. Some of the most beautiful girls in the world are six feet tall, and taller—show girls, models and the girls who walk off with the baseball stars! And when YOU choose a mate, you'll want one who's at least as tall as you, won't you? So don't blame your parents for aiming high. You'll probably follow suit.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Maybe you can help me with this embarrassing situation. My husband is 66 years old and has been retired since 1950. We don't go out to eat very often, but when we do he has a habit of "kidding around" with the waitresses. He can't just order his meal, eat it and leave. He has to make some personal remark to the waitress, like, "Say . . . what nationality are you?" Or, "How long have you been working here?" Sooner or later he asks her if she is married. It never fails. Isn't he being rude to the waitress and inconsiderate of me? If you have any suggestions on how to solve this problem, I would appreciate it.

"BUGS BUNNY"

DEAR BUGS: Yes, it is considered bad manners to direct personal remarks to the waitress, but if your husband is this type you aren't going to change him at age 66. Don't be embarrassed. some waitresses enjoy it, too. And those who don't know how to serve up an icy retort.

WHY Grow Old?

food, and your beauty

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

By Josephine Lowman

The scientific discoveries concerning nutrition and its effect on health and beauty are as exciting as our progress toward landing on the moon! We are so much more aware today of the direct effect the food we eat has on us and our performance and happiness than we once were.

The discovery of vitamins and what they mean to us is one of the most dramatic things which has happened in a long time. Vitamins help to metabolize the food we eat. For instance we cannot properly utilize the calcium in our diet without vitamin D. Some knowledge of vitamins is essential if we are to plan well-balanced meals; yet many women still know practicaly nothing about them, what they do, and where they are found.

Consider vitamin A. The most important sources of vitamin A are cod liver oil, butter, whole milk, eggs and the green and yellow vegetables. Vitamin A is found as such in eggs, butter and cream, but in vegetables it is in the form of carotenoids which are converted into vitamin A in the body.

Be sure to include the green and yellow vegetables in your menus. Only one-third of an ounce of fresh parsley daily will supply one-third the total vitamin A requirements. Part of the vitamin A content of foods is lost in cooking. Practically all of it is lost in frying.

Vitamin A deficiency in children may show in slow growth and susceptibility to infections. In adults one of the best signs is night blindness or poor sight in the dark Vitamin A deficiency can also lead to extremely dry skin.

Opening lead—jack of hearts.

There is much more skill involved in the art of falsecarding than is generally realized. Falsecarding is almost entirely a matter of psychology, the aim being to persuade an adversary that a condition exists which actually does not, or, stated otherwise, that a condition does not exist which actually does.

To create such an illusion requires a knowledge of how the other fellow thinks. It is idle to spend time and talent trying to plant an idea in your opponent's mind when there is no fertile soil to receive it. A deceptive play may well be successful against an expert and be fruitless against a lesser player. Different tactics have to be used against different opponents.

In this hand, declarer won the jack of hearts with the ace and finessed the nine of clubs, losing to the king. East returned a heart and South ran nine tricks consisting of three hearts, two diamonds and four clubs. Had East played back a spade instead of a heart, South would have gone down one.

The question here is whether East should have shifted to a spade. Actually, he should have, the reason being South's ill-advised falsecard at trick one.

East can readily deduce from the ace play that South must have the A-K-Q. From West's lead of the jack—obviously the top card of a sequence — it is known that South has the queen.

It would make no sense for East to assume that declarer's high cards in hearts were only the A-Q. In such case, South would surely have won the opening lead with the queen. It follows from this that South must also have the king and that a heart return is futile. A spade shift then becomes mandatory.

South can make things tougher for East by winning the opening lead with the queen. East might then assume that the lead came from the A-J-10-9-x or the K-J-10-9-x, in which case a heart return could work out best.

South failed, but so did East.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. Water Is Same—1925 Or 1965

Have you ever noticed that everytime one of today's athletes breaks a record, the old-timers come flocking out of their rocking chairs to claim, "The athletes today are no better; they just have better equipment."

Their argument that equipment is better today can not be disputed. But the argument that athletes are breaking records today only because of the equipment does not hold water—especially where water is involved.

The golfer certainly is aided by better clubs and a ball that is designed to go farther. The runner may be aided by better surfaces on today's tracks. The pole vaulter may be helped by a pole that whips him over the bar like a pebble from a young boy's sling shot. The baseball players may be helped by the livelier baseball.

These improvements likely are factors in the everyday assault on sports records. But the athlete must also be given some credit.

This is especially true in the sport of swimming. Every time two swimmers plunge into the water in competition, you could get rich by betting your neighbor that one of them will set a record before they climb out.

And water today still contains two parts hydrogen to one part oxygen, just as it did when Columbus was trying to find America. Today's water is no easier for the swimmer to cut through than it was when his grandfather was splashing through the lake on the farm back home.

Reusable Headlines

Newspapers could save time today whenever a swimming meet is held if they just saved a headline that read, "Swimmers Rewrite Record Book."

Swimming records today last about as long as a nickel ice cream cone in an eight-year-old boy's hand. The Sunday Journal and Star Swimming Meet, staged a week ago, is a perfect example.

Swimmers this year broke 24 records with two swimmers, Stan Ewing and Mark Bryan, breaking three each. These two top swimmers hardly can enter the water without the record keepers reaching for the eraser.

In fact, Stan, swimming in the age group just ahead of Mark, has to keep setting records to keep his name in the book. Ewing's records last only until Bryan moves up to that age bracket.

More Time In Water

Dick Klaas, Nebraska swimming coach, notes there are several factors involved in the improved swimming performances, but points out that it basically gets down to the fact that today's swimmers are "just spending more time in the water."

In listing the reasons for the continued improvement in swimming times, Klaas starts with the age group program that get youngsters started as soon as they can hold their head above the water.

"Youngsters are starting to train so much younger," he points out. "They are starting to compete at 10 and under, something that has really taken a hold in the last 10 years.

"Another thing is training methods. Swimmers are now working on strengthening themselves out of the water with isometrics and weight training.

"They also are training longer. Swimmers used to train only an hour or so. Now they train three and four hours a day. And they are swimming the year around.

"At the University of Indiana, the swimmers work out three times a day during the summer. A few years ago, college and high school swimmers would work out only during the regular swimming season at school.

"But it all gets back to just being in the water more," the NU coach concludes. "This improves respiration endurance and muscular endurance which means today's swimmers can swim harder and longer than their predecessors."

You can talk about your gimmicks in other sports, but the swimmer presents a strong case for the contention that today's athletes are better.

Pappas, Marichal To Duel In Today's All-Star Contest

St. Paul-Minneapolis (AP)—Juan Marichal, the high-kicking ace pitcher of the San Francisco Giants, will face fiery Milt Pappas of Baltimore in Tuesday's 36th All-Star baseball game before 47,000 fans at enlarged Metropolitan Stadium.

Although Willie Mays still is aching from a home plate collision with Pat Corrales Saturday and may see only limited action, the National League remained a 7-5 favorite over the American League team.

The game starts at 12 noon, CST, with network radio and television via NBC.

The National League, which once trailed 12-4 in the series dating back to 1933, pulled even at 17-17-1 last year by winning at New York's Shea Stadium on Johnny Callison's three-run homer in the ninth.

Gene Mauch, Philadelphia manager who got the NL All-Star managerial job because St. Louis' Johnny Keane shifted to the New York Yankees, named Marichal as his starter.

Mauch got a close-up look at the 14-game winner Saturday night when he shut out the Phillies 7-0 on two hits. The 26-year-old right-hander has a fantastic 1.55 earned run average and has completed 15 of 20 starts.

Mauch hinted Cincinnati's Jim Maloney, who has a 10-4 record, would be his second pitcher and said all eight might work if needed. No pitcher can work more than three innings unless the game goes into overtime.

Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox, filling in as American League manager because Yogi Berra was fired after winning the 1964 pennant with the New York Yankees, didn't make the noon news conference but sent word that Pappas would be his pitcher.

Pappas, a 26-year-old right-hander, has a 9-3 record with a 1.74 ERA for the Orioles. He shut out White Sox with four hits Friday night. Jim Grant of the home town Minnesota Twins and Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees might follow up.

Mauch surprised many by putting Mays in the leadoff position.

"If there is a chance for anybody to be up five times, I'd like to have it be Willie," said Mauch.

However, Mays still has a sore hip as a result of his collision in Philadelphia. He undoubtedly will start but might not go all the way. In a sense, Willie is coming home for it was in Minneapolis, then a farm club in the American Association, that he was hitting .477 in 1951 before the Giants bought him from New York.

Mauch also has his ties with this area. He managed Minneapolis when it was a Boston farm in 1958-59.

"We're going to try to win the game," said Mauch when asked if he planned to play his starters all the way. "It's a great honor to be picked and also a great honor to win it."

Mauch spotted second baseman Pete Rose of Cincinnati No. 7 in the order and fleet shortstop Maury Wills of Los Angeles in the No. 8 position.

"I would like them to be on base when Willie comes up," he explained. "But if it's tied in the late innings I want Willie or Hank Aaron coming up because they could win it with one swing of the bat."

The statistics give the Nationals a 12-point edge in batting with a composite average of .296 to the Americans' .284. National League sluggers have hit 200 home runs to 178 by the Americans, who used to dominate in this department.

Mauch has long bill power in left fielder Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh, center fielder Mays, right fielder Aaron of Milwaukee, first baseman Ernie Banks of Chicago, third baseman Richie Allen of the Phils and catcher Joe Torre of Milwaukee. Rose is a hustling consistent hitter and Wills already has stolen 55 bases in a drive on his own record.

The American League moved Harmon Killebrew of the Twins into the starting line-up at first base when Chicago's Bill Skowron had to give way because of an injury. The Killer beat the Yankees Sunday with a dramatic ninth-inning homer.

Third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore and catcher Earl Battey of the Twins can hit the long one occasionally, and center fielder Vic Davalillo of Cleveland is hitting .321.

All starters, except the pitchers, were picked by the players, coaches and managers. They must play at least the first three innings.

This is the first time since 1943 that no New York Yankees are in the starting line-up. although four are on the squad since first baseman Joe Pepitone has been named as a replacement for Skowron on the 25-man roster.

Pappas worked the ninth inning of the second All-Star game in 1962 at Chicago. That was the last American League victory, but he was not the winner. The National has won six of the last eight and one of the others was a tie.

Lopez is 0-4 as an All-Star manager. This is Mauch's first effort after serving as a coach in 1961 and 1963.

CHRISTIE PACES LADIES Mom 2 Strokes Behind At 84

. . . IN STATE GALS' MEET

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Christie Schwartzkopf, winner of the State Girl's Junior Championship a year ago, indicated Monday she was ready to challenge for the Nebraska State Ladies' golf title when she led qualifiers with a six-over-par 82 at the Hillcrest Country Club.

The 16-year-old high school student from Lincoln edged her mother, defending state champion Dorothy, by two strokes for medalist honors in the 49th State Ladies' Tournament.

But being runner-up in the qualifying round is nothing new for Dorothy, who is seeking her fourth state championship and her third in a row.

Mrs. Schwartzkopf finished second to Jean Hyland of the Lincoln Country Club in qualifying two years ago and was runner-up to Joan Martig of the Omaha Field Club last year. Both times however, the Hillcrest Country Club golfer came back to defeat the medalist for the championship in the match play competition.

Christie birdied only two holes, but played steady golf most of the way in capturing medalist honors. She went one-under-par on the third hole, a 213-yard, par 4, when she hit a 3-wood off the tee to the front edge of the green, chipped 10-feet short and sank the putt.

Her other birdie was on the 374-yard, par-5 10th when she reached the green on her second shot and two putted.

The young Lincoln gal, who has been as busy with Student government honors this summer as with golf, played so steadily that she didn't have a double bogey until the final hole when a bad chip shot led to a six on the 354-yard 18th.

"I was satisfied with the round," she observed. "My putting was especially good." Christie didn't miss any putts of less than 4-feet and sank par putts from 20-feet on No. 5, 10-feet on No. 8 and 15-feet on No. 16.

"I had one stretch from the 11th through the 14th hole where my putting really saved me," she pointed out. "Dick (her caddy Dick Dosek) told me it was a good thing I was putting good in order to salvage bogeys on those holes."

She bogeyed all those holes before coming out of a slump with three straight pars on the way to a backside 42, 5-over-par. Christie was only one over at the turn with a 40.

Dorothy, playing in a three-some immediately behind Christie also double-bogeyed the 18th and she also followed Christie's example with birdies on Nos. 3 and 10.

The defending champion, pulled her second shot into the rough on the 18th hole and had to punch her third shot back into the fairway when a tree hampered her swing. Dorothy birdied the second hole with a nine-iron to the green on the par 5, 406-yard hole, then sank an 8-foot putt. Another birdie on No. 3 put her two under par after three holes when she sank another 8-foot putt.

Joan Martig, the reigning Omaha city champion and rrunner-up to Mrs. Schwartzkopf a year ago, tied for third and qualified with an 87. Miriam Sanderes of the Hillcrest Country Club also had an 87.

Former champion Jean Hyland of the Lincoln Country Club withdrew from the tournament, complaining of putting problems after shooting a 90.

Christie will face Falls City's Connie Carter in her first round match today while Dorothy goes against Ann Magee of the Lincoln Country Club.

Miss Carter gained the championship flight with a 94, playing the front side with only 12 putts.

The championship flight:

Christie Schwartzkopf, HCC	40-42—82
Dorothy Schwartzkopf, HCC	41-43—84
Joan Martig, OFC	44-43—87
Miriam Sanders, HCC	46 41—87

Taber, Lau Head Nebraskans In Trans-Mississippi Golf Tourney

. . . WILLIAMSON STRUGGLES WITH 82

Kansas City (AP) — Matt Taber and Bob Lau led the three-man Nebraska contingent in the first round of the Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament Monday, each carding four-over-par 74s.

The third Nebraskan, Tom Williamson, suffered through the round, finishing well back at 82. All three are from Lincoln.

Nebraska State Amateur champion Bob Astleford of Omaha, did not comepte.

Taber played a consistent round, making the turn in 37, and then duplicating the score on the final nine. He opened the round with eight straight pars, but then misjudged his second shot on the ninth, hitting over the green for a double bogey six.

On the backside Taber took a bogey fives on both the 13th and 18th, driving into the trees on both occasions on his tee shots.

Lau was even par 35 after the opening nine, and remained so through 13 holes. But he then bogeyed four of the final five holes, coming in at 74.

Taber and Lau are in a 10-way tie for 11th after the first round, five strokes behind the leader, Jim Rheim of Chula Vista, Calif.

Rheim was the only one to break par, carding a one-under 69. Jim Welchers of Menlo Park, Calif., the NCAA runner-up this year, settled for a 73.

The best Dave Eichelberger of Waco, Tex., a quarter-finalist in the 1964 U.S. Amateur, could do was 74. Ron Cuerrudo of San Francisco, a semifinalist in last year's Trans-Miss, came in with a 75.

Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., current NCAA champion from Houston university, arrived too late for the day's round, but a change in the Trans-Miss qualifying rules gave him a reprieve.

The Board of Directors announced that the NCAA champion, the British and U.S. Amateur champions, and the low amateur in the U.S. Open would be exempt from qualifying. So Fleckman still is in the tourney.

Harry Logan, executive secretary of the Trans-Miss, said he believed it will take a score of 155 to qualify for the opening of match play Wednesday.

The finals will be Sunday.

Bolte, Smola Do Well In Public Links Golf

Pittsburgh — Merele Bolte and Walt Smola, both of Omaha, posted scores among the top 64 in the National Public Links Golf Championship here Monday. Bolte was tied for fourth with a 36-38—74 and Smola for seventh with a 40-36—76.

PRISCILLA'S ON A SPREE

I do hope this isn't the start of a long slump. Three losers in a row is enough.

Watching the races Saturday I noticed the horses on the inside weren't doing very well. I hope my favorites get outside post postions. Why only one horse that won started from inside the No. 5 post position and he was in a long race.

Water Is Same—1925 Or 1965

Have you ever noticed that everytime one of today's athletes breaks a record, the old-timers come flocking out of their rocking chairs to claim, "The athletes today are no better; they just have better equipment."

Their argument that equipment is better today can not be disputed. But the argument that athletes are breaking records today only because of the equipment does not hold water—especially where water is involved.

The golfer certainly is aided by better clubs and a ball that is designed to go farther. The runner may be aided by better surfaces on today's tracks. The pole vaulter may be helped by a pole that whips him over the bar like a pebble from a young boy's sling shot. The baseball players may be helped by the livelier baseball.

These improvements likely are factors in the everyday assault on sports records. But the athlete must also be given some credit.

This is especially true in the sport of swimming. Every time two swimmers plunge into the water in competition, you could get rich by betting your neighbor that one of them will set a record before they climb out.

And water today still contains two parts hydrogen to one part oxygen, just as it did when Columbus was trying to find America. Today's water is no easier for the swimmer to cut through than it was when his grandfather was splashing through the lake on the farm back home.

Reusable Headlines

Newspapers could save time today whenever a swimming meet is held if they just saved a headline that read, "Swimmers Rewrite Record Book."

Swimming records today last about as long as a nickel ice cream cone in an eight-year-old boy's hand. The Sunday Journal and Star Swimming Meet, staged a week ago, is a perfect example.

Swimmers this year broke 24 records with two swimmers, Stan Ewing and Mark Bryan, breaking three each. These two top swimmers hardly can enter the water without the record keepers reaching for the eraser.

In fact, Stan, swimming in the age group just ahead of Mark, has to keep setting records to keep his name in the book. Ewing's records last only until Bryan moves up to that age bracket.

More Time In Water

Dick Klaas, Nebraska swimming coach, notes there are several factors involved in the improved swimming performances, but points out that it basically gets down to the fact that today's swimmers are "just spending more time in the water."

In listing the reasons for the continued improvement in swimming times, Klaas starts with the age group program that get youngsters started as soon as they can hold their head above the water.

"Youngsters are starting to train so much younger," he points out. "They are starting to compete at 10 and under, something that has really taken a hold in the last 10 years.

"Another thing is training methods. Swimmers are now working on strengthening themselves out of the water with isometrics and weight training.

"They also are training longer. Swimmers used to train only an hour or so. Now they train three and four hours a day. And they are swimming the year around.

"At the University of Indiana, the swimmers work out three times a day during the summer. A few years ago, college and high school swimmers would work out only during the regular swimming season at school.

"But it all gets back to just being in the water more," the NU coach concludes. "This improves respiration endurance and muscular endurance which means today's swimmers can swim harder and longer than their predecessors."

You can talk about your gimmicks in other sports, but the swimmer presents a strong case for the contention that today's athletes are better.

Pappas, Marichal To Duel In Today's All-Star Contest

St. Paul-Minneapolis (AP)—Juan Marichal, the high-kicking ace pitcher of the San Francisco Giants, will face fiery Milt Pappas of Baltimore in Tuesday's 36th All-Star baseball game before 47,000 fans at enlarged Metropolitan Stadium.

Although Willie Mays still is aching from a home plate collision with Pat Corrales Saturday and may see only limited action, the National League remained a 7-5 favorite over the American League team.

The game starts at 12 noon, CST, with network radio and television via NBC.

The National League, which once trailed 12-4 in the series dating back to 1933, pulled even at 17-17-1 last year by winning at New York's Shea Stadium on Johnny Callison's three-run homer in the ninth.

Gene Mauch, Philadelphia manager who got the NL All-Star managerial job because St. Louis' Johnny Keane shifted to the New York Yankees, named Marichal as his starter.

Mauch got a close-up look at the 14-game winner Saturday night when he shut out the Phillies 7-0 on two hits. The 26-year-old right-hander has a fantastic 1.55 earned run average and has completed 15 of 20 starts.

Mauch hinted Cincinnati's Jim Maloney, who has a 10-4 record, would be his second pitcher and said all eight might work if needed. No pitcher can work more than three innings unless the game goes into overtime.

Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox, filling in as American League manager because Yogi Berra was fired after winning the 1964 pennant with the New York Yankees, didn't make the noon news conference but sent word that Pappas would be his pitcher.

Pappas, a 26-year-old right-hander, has a 9-3 record with a 1.74 ERA for the Orioles. He shut out White Sox with four hits Friday night. Jim Grant of the home town Minnesota Twins and Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees might follow up.

Mauch surprised many by putting Mays in the leadoff position.

"If there is a chance for anybody to be up five times, I'd like to have it be Willie," said Mauch.

However, Mays still has a sore hip as a result of his collision in Philadelphia. He undoubtedly will start but might not go all the way. In a sense, Willie is coming home for it was in Minneapolis, then a farm club in the American Association, that he was hitting .477 in 1951 before the Giants bought him from New York.

Mauch also has his ties with this area. He managed Minneapolis when it was a Boston farm in 1958-59.

"We're going to try to win the game," said Mauch when asked if he planned to play his starters all the way. "It's a great honor to be picked and also a great honor to win it."

Mauch spotted second baseman Pete Rose of Cincinnati No. 7 in the order and fleet shortstop Maury Wills of Los Angeles in the No. 8 position.

"I would like them to be on base when Willie comes up," he explained. "But if it's tied in the late innings I want Willie or Hank Aaron coming up because they could win it with one swing of the bat."

The statistics give the Nationals a 12-point edge in batting with a composite average of .296 to the Americans' .284. National League sluggers have hit 200 home runs to 178 by the Americans, who used to dominate in this department.

Mauch has long bill power in left fielder Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh, center fielder Mays, right fielder Aaron of Milwaukee, first baseman Ernie Banks of Chicago, third baseman Richie Allen of the Phils and catcher Joe Torre of Milwaukee. Rose is a hustling consistent hitter and Wills already has stolen 55 bases in a drive on his own record.

The American League moved Harmon Killebrew of the Twins into the starting line-up at first base when Chicago's Bill Skowron had to give way because of an injury. The Killer beat the Yankees Sunday with a dramatic ninth-inning homer.

Other power men in the American starting line-up include left fielder Willie Horton of Detroit, right fielder Rocky Colavito of Cleveland, second baseman Felix Mantilla of Boston and shortstop Dick McAuliffe of Detroit.

Third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore and catcher Earl Battey of the Twins can hit the long one occasionally, and center fielder Vic Davalillo of Cleveland is hitting .321.

All starters, except the pitchers, were picked by the players, coaches and managers. They must play at least the first three innings.

This is the first time since 1943 that no New York Yankees are in the starting line-up. although four are on the squad since first baseman Joe Pepitone has been named as a replacement for Skowron on the 25-man roster.

Pappas worked the ninth inning of the second All-Star game in 1962 at Chicago. That was the last American League victory, but he was not the winner. The National has won six of the last eight and one of the others was a tie.

Lopez is 0-4 as an All-Star manager. This is Mauch's first effort after serving as a coach in 1961 and 1963.

CHRISTIE PACES LADIES

Mom 2 Strokes Behind At 84

. . . IN STATE GALS' MEET

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Christie Schwartzkopf, winner of the State Girl's Junior Championship a year ago, indicated Monday she was ready to challenge for the Nebraska State Ladies' golf title when she led qualifiers with a six-over-par 82 at the Hillcrest Country Club.

The 16-year-old high school student from Lincoln edged her mother, defending state champion Dorothy, by two strokes for medalist honors in the 49th State Ladies' Tournament.

But being runner-up in the qualifying round is nothing new for Dorothy, who is seeking her fourth state championship and her third in a row.

Mrs. Schwartzkopf finished second to Jean Hyland of the Lincoln Country Club in qualifying two years ago and was runner-up to Joan Martig of the Omaha Field Club last year. Both times however, the Hillcrest Country Club golfer came back to defeat the medalist for the championship in the match play competition.

Christie birdied only two holes, but played steady golf most of the way in capturing medalist honors. She went one-under-par on the third hole, a 213-yard, par 4, when she hit a 3-wood off the tee to the front edge of the green, chipped 10-feet short and sank the putt.

Her other birdie was on the 374-yard, par-5 10th when she reached the green on her second shot and two putted.

The young Lincoln gal, who has been as busy with Student government honors this summer as with golf, played so steadily that she didn't have a double bogey until the final hole when a bad chip shot led to a six on the 354-yard 18th.

"I was satisfied with the round," she observed. "My putting was especially good." Christie didn't miss any putts of less than 4-feet and sank par putts from 20-feet on No. 5, 10-feet on No. 8 and 15-feet on No. 16.

"I had one stretch from the 11th through the 14th hole where my putting really saved me," she pointed out. "Dick (her caddy Dick Dosek) told me it was a good thing I was putting good in order to salvage bogeys on those holes."

She bogeyed all those holes before coming out of a slump with three straight pars on the way to a backside 42, 5-over-par. Christie was only one over at the turn with a 40.

Dorothy, playing in a three-some immediately behind Christie also double-bogeyed the 18th and she also followed Christie's example with birdies on Nos. 3 and 10.

The defending champion, pulled her second shot into the rough on the 18th hole and had to punch her third shot back into the fairway when a tree hampered her swing. Dorothy birdied the second hole with a nine-iron to the green on the par 5, 406-yard hole, then sank an 8-foot putt. Another birdie on No. 3 put her two under par after three holes when she sank another 8-foot putt.

Joan Martig, the reigning Omaha city champion and rrunner-up to Mrs. Schwartzkopf a year ago, tied for third and qualified with an 87. Miriam Sanderes of the Hillcrest Country Club also had an 87.

Former champion Jean Hyland of the Lincoln Country Club withdrew from the tournament, complaining of putting problems after shooting a 90.

Christie will face Falls City's Connie Carter in her first round match today while Dorothy goes against Ann Magee of the Lincoln Country Club.

Miss Carter gained the championship flight with a 94, playing the front side with only 12 putts.

The championship flight:

Taber, Lau Head Nebraskans In Trans-Mississippi Golf Tourney

. . . WILLIAMSON STRUGGLES WITH 82

Kansas City (AP) — Matt Taber and Bob Lau led the three-man Nebraska contingent in the first round of the Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament Monday, each carding four-over-par 74s.

The third Nebraskan, Tom Williamson, suffered through the round, finishing well back at 82. All three are from Lincoln.

Nebraska State Amateur champion Bob Astleford of Omaha, did not comepte.

Taber played a consistent round, making the turn in 37, and then duplicating the score on the final nine. He opened the round with eight straight pars, but then misjudged his second shot on the ninth. hitting over the green for a double bogey six.

On the backside Taber took a bogey fives on both the 13th and 18th, driving into the trees on both occasions on his tee shots.

Lau was even par 35 after the opening nine, and remained so through 13 holes. But he then bogeyed four of the final five holes, coming in at 74.

Taber and Lau are in a 10-way tie for 11th after the first round, five strokes behind the leader, Jim Rheim of Chula Vista, Calif.

Rheim was the only one to break par, carding a one-under 69. Jim Welchers of Menlo Park, Calif., the NCAA runner-up this year, settled for a 73.

The best Dave Eichelberger of Waco, Tex., a quarter-finalist in the 1964 U.S. Amateur, could do was 74. Ron Cuerrudo of San Francisco, a semifinalist in last year's Trans-Miss, came in with a 75.

Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., current NCAA champion from Houston juniversity, arrived too late for the day's round, but a change in the Trans-Miss qualifying rules gave him a reprieve.

The Board of Directors announced that the NCAA champion, the British and U.S. Amateur champions, and the low amateur in the U.S. Open would be exempt from qualifying. So Fleckman still is in the tourney.

Harry Logan, executive secretary of the Trans-Miss, said he believed it will take a score of 155 to qualify for the opening of match play Wednesday.

The finals will be Sunday.

Bolte, Smola Do Well In Public Links Golf

Pittsburgh — Merele Bolte and Walt Smola, both of Omaha, posted scores among the top 64 in the National Public Links Golf Championship here Monday. Bolte was tied for fourth with a 36-38—74 and Smola for seventh with a 40-36—76.

PRISCILLA'S ON A SPREE

I do hope this isn't the start of a long slump. Three losers in a row is enough.

Watching the races Saturday I noticed the horses on the inside weren't doing very well. I hope my favorites get outside post postions. Why only one horse that won started from inside the No. 5 post position and he was in a long race.

Priscilla

Tuesday I'll try these — $2 to win on Little Gap in the fourth and $2 to win on Just Don't Shove in the sixth. They ought to prevent a long losing streak.

Saturday Aunt Priscilla lost on both of her selections leaving her $92.40. She started the season with $92.)

Shrine Profiles

DAN HARTMAN

Kearney's Dan Hartman offers speed and power from the fullback spot for the South Shrine Bowl team.

Hartman

Hartman was a football, wrestling and track letterman at Kearney High School and an honor roll student.

Hartman twice scored in the 100-yard dash in the state track meet. He was fourth as a junior, then placed fifth as a senior.

Dan was the Big Ten wrestling champion at 165 pounds and also won the 100-yard dash in the conference track meet.

Dan is an employe of the county during the summer and has a hobby of stamp collecting.

SAM BUDA

Sam Buda is one of four Creighton Prep representatives on the North Shrine Bowl squad.

A 6-5, 245-pounder, Sam is one of the biggest players ever tabbed for Shrine Bowl duty.

Buda

Sam earned eight letters in football, basketball and track at Creighton Prep.

His 176-4 mark in the discus last spring is the best ever posted by a Nebraska high school athlete and he pushed the shot 55-7½. He was also the top rebounder in Metro basketball play.

Sam, whose hobbies are swimming and hunting, is looking forward to a career as a lawyer.

Helen Wills' Concepts On Tennis Unchanged

Carmel, Calif (AP)—The tennis world knew Helen Wills as "Little Miss Poker Face," eight times Wimbledon singles champion and a player with intense competitive drive

That was a generation ago and, today, as Mrs. Aiden Roark, wife of the famed nine-goal international polo player and sportsman, she still plays competent tennis several times a week for sheer love of the game.

It has been 20 years since she has played competitive tennis, and you have to go far back to a fantastic 10-year era starting in the mid-1920s to recall Helen's great record, but her concept of what it takes to win big time tournaments is as firm now as then

"I think one of the secrets of success in tournament play is to concentrate," she said. "If the mind begins to wander or you get upset, you cannot win.

"I found that a lot of conversation before a match just ruined you. So before a match I always was quiet, stayed in my room and avoided rushing around."

She regards the way she got her nickname as an amusing oddity. There was a poet named Arthur Guiterman who wrote some light verse about Helen, calling her "Little Miss Poker Face," and she said "That was how it started . . . the name stuck."

The finest thing about tennis, she believes, is that it is a game "open to everyone" which can be played indefinitely.

"The thing about it is you must be a natural born player, practice and learn to concentrate to earn your right to play in places like Forest Hills and Wimbledon," Helen emphasized.

Growing up in Berkeley, Calif., the daughter of Dr. C. A Wills, Helen started learning the game at the Berkeley Tennis Club Playing in junior tournaments she fast gained such class that she was invited to Forest Hills to play in the National Junior Championships at 15

When she was only 16, she was runner-up in the National Women's Singles at Forest Hills and, at 17, won the singles championship there in competition against America's finest women players

In 1924 she won the only title she holds to this day—the Olympic Games singles—that being the only time in Olympics history tennis was included. The unique tournament was held at Colombes, outside Paris.

"I guess people would be surprised to know that tennis ever was played as an Olympic sport, because it never has been since then," she said.

The year after she won her first Forest Hills title, she was invited to play in England, starting her amazing string of Wimbledon victories which ranked her as one of the finest women champions the game has ever produced.

Names, dates and individual matches have faded into time now, although she remembers some of the greats like England's Kathleen McKanes and Lili de Alvarez of Spain.

"The finest player I ever met was France's Suzanne Lenglen, who beat me once in South France," she recalled. "I was 18 then and just arriving at the peak of my game."

Now, Helen has found a variety of interests to supplement her leisurely tennis, playing about every other day at the Beach Club in nearby Pebble Beach, where pro Don Leary will tell you, "She was the world's greatest."

While Roark, who has substituted the raising the training of championship English Springers for polo, and acts as a racing official at Golden Gate Fields, Monmouth Park and other tracks, Helen has become active in Republican Party affairs, oil painting and caring for their relatively new home in the Carmel Valley, just outside this quaint coastal town.

"I'm just getting used to living in our new place," she sad. She does some gardening but "not very strenuous, though."

Young Takes Pro Division In Omaha Golf

Omaha—John Young, pro at Lincoln's Holmes Park, won the pro division of a pro-am event at the Benson Park golf course here Monday with a three-over-par 75

Young's team of amateurs Steve Bock, Larry Romjue and Don Palmer also won the team handicap division with a best-ball handicap score of 63.

Tom Fulkerson and defending State Amateur Champion Bob Astleford, both of Omaha, tied for low amateur honors with one-over-par 73s.

The results:

LOW PRO—John Young, Lincoln Holmes Park, 75, Matt Zadalis, Omaha Miller Park, 76, Don Placek, Fremont Country Club, 77

LOW AMATEUR—Tom Fulkerson, Omaha, 73, Bob Astleford, Omaha, 73, Larry Romjue, Lincoln, 75, Wes Malnack, Omaha, 75

LOW TEAM (Scratch)—Omaha Benson Park pro Bob Anthes, amateurs Bob Astleford, Wes Malnack and Dick Dykes, 66, Grand Island Riverside Golf Club, pro Merle Backlund, amateurs Ron Peterson, Bob Peterson and Jim Easley, 68

LOW TEAM (Handicap) — Lincoln Hillcrest Country Club, pro Merle Backlund, amateurs Cliff Orcutt, John Bottorff, Paul Anderson, 65

Bohaty's Homer Gives Ken Witt's 5-2 Legion Win

Beatrice — Mike Bohaty's two-run home run in the eighth inning of a scheduled seven-inning contest gave Lincoln Witt's Juniors a 5-2 win over Beatrice here Monday.

Brown Goes To Court

Cleveland (AP) — Eight jurors — most of whom are not football fans — were questioned Monday in the opening day of the trial of professional fullback Jim Brown.

Five women and three men were seated tentatively after careful questioning by Police Prosecutor Al Corsi and Defense Atty. Norman Minor.

Brown, 29-year-old All-Pro fullback of the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns, is charged with assault and battery against Miss Brenda Ayres, 18.

Tentative seating of the jury continues in Municipal Court Tuesday at 9 a.m., EDT Then lawyers for both sides may exercise challenges and replace some jurors.

Both Corsi and Minor took special note to point out the meaning of circumstantial evidence. Brown has pleaded innocent and declined to make pre-trial comment to the charge by Miss Ayres that he slapped her in an East Side Motel on the night of June 19.

Neither side has indicated it knows of any witnesses to the alleged incident. Conviction on the assault and battery charge carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $200 fine.

With Minor as Brown's defense counsel are Jerry Milano and Miss Sarah Harper.

Brown, smiling when he entered the courtroom, was dressed in a dark suit. He chatted with a few acquaintances and occasionally whispered to Miss Harper once the trial started.

2 City Teams Lose Junior Ballgames

Defending state American Legion Junior champion Grand Island scored four times in the 12th inning to garner a 6-2 victory over the Lincoln Optimists at Sherman Field Monday night.

In the second game, Roberts took a 6-3 lashing from Hastings.

The Islanders scored four runs on three hits in the top of the 12th, breaking open a 2-2 tie. Singles by Doug Townsand, Dick Vautravers and John Copple, coupled with a fielder's choice, a walk and an error sent the Optimist's down in defeat.

Hastings scored five runs in the first two innings to gain its 6-3 win over Roberts. Gary Smith's Roberts team, trailing 6-2 going into the bottom of the ninth, rallied for one run, but was still three big tallies short.

Seeded Netters Advance In River Forest Tourney

River Forest, Ill. (AP)—All seeded players advanced without incident to the second round of the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships at the River Forest Tennis Club Monday.

The only upsets registered were by a pair of relatively unknown teen-agers who eliminated the nation's 12th and 13th-ranked players.

The tournament was being played as a final tune-up for America's Davis Cup squad which meets Mexico in Dallas beginning July 31.

Fifth-ranked Hamilton Richardson came out of semi-retirement after being asked to play on the Davis Cup doubles team. Richardson responded with a first-round victory over Jeff Brown of Carmichael, Calif., 6-2, 6-0.

Top-seeded Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., who is to play with Richardson on the U.S. doubles team, scored an easy 6-2, 6-0, victory over Southern Illinois University's Mike Sprengelmeyer.

Second-seeded Arthur Ashe Jr. of Richmond, Va., another Davis Cupper, defeated Ned Held of Weston, Mass., 6-1, 6-4

Cliff Richey of Dallas, Tex., winner of Sunday's Western Open in Milwaukee and eighth seeded in the Clay Courts, defeated Lester Sack, Clarksdale, Miss., 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Another Davis Cup hopeful, Marty Riessen, Evanston, Ill., downed John Powless, Flora, Ill., 6-4, 6-1.

Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., 19-year-old National Boys champion, upset 12th-ranked Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, 6-3, 7-5, and Walter Johnson of Atlanta eliminated 13th-ranked Tom Edlefsenn of Los Angeles, 7-5, 6-2.

In the women's division, top-seeded Nancy Richey, the defending champion from Dallas, defeated Connie Cristler of Shawnee Mission, Kan. 6-2, 6-2.

Second-seeded Carole Graebner of Evanston, Ill., swept past Alice Pym, Peoria, Ill., 6-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Highly regarded Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., was upset by Kathleen Harder, Seal Beach, Calif., 6-4, 6-3.

Whitworth Tops Women

Quincy, Ill. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth has increased her money lead on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour following her victory in the Lady Carling Midwest Open over the weekend.

Miss Whitworth pocketed $1,500 following her Lady Carling triumph to boost her earnings for the year to $13,535. It was Kathy's fourth official victory.

Carol Mann remained in second place with earnings of $9,891 while Sandra Haynie pushed her way into third place with winnings of $9,421.

Helen Wills' Concepts On Tennis Unchanged

Carmel, Calif. (AP)—The tennis world knew Helen Wills as "Little Miss Poker Face," eight times Wimbledon singles champion and a player with intense competitive drive.

That was a generation ago and, today, as Mrs. Aiden Roark, wife of the famed nine-goal international polo player and sportsman, she still plays competent tennis several times a week for sheer love of the game.

It has been 20 years since she has played competitive tennis, and you have to go far back to a fantastic 10-year era starting in the mid-1920s to recall Helen's great record, but her concept of what it takes to win big time tournaments is as firm now as then.

"I think one of the secrets of success in tournament play is to concentrate," she said. "If the mind begins to wander or you get upset, you cannot win.

"I found that a lot of conversation before a match just ruined you. So before a match I always was quiet, stayed in my room and avoided rushing around."

She regards the way she got her nickname as an amusing oddity. There was a poet named Arthur Guiterman who wrote some light verse about Helen, calling her "Little Miss Poker Face," and she said "That was how it started . . . the name stuck."

The finest thing about tennis, she believes, is that it is a game "open to everyone" which can be played indefinitely.

"The thing about it is you must be a natural born player, practice and learn to concentrate to earn your right to play in places like Forest Hills and Wimbledon," Helen emphasized.

Growing up in Berkeley, Calif., the daughter of Dr. C. A. Wills, Helen started learning the game at the Berkeley Tennis Club. Playing in junior tournaments, she fast gained such class that she was invited to Forest Hills to play in the National Junior Championships at 15.

When she was only 16, she was runner-up in the National Women's Singles at Forest Hills and, at 17, won the singles championship there in competition against America's finest women players.

In 1924 she won the only title she holds to this day—the Olympic Games singles—that being the only time in Olympics history tennis was included. The unique tournament was held at Colombes, outside Paris.

"I guess people would be surprised to know that tennis ever was played as an Olympic sport, because it never has been since then," she said.

The year after she won her first Forest Hills title, she was invited to play in England, starting her amazing string of Wimbledon victories which ranked her as one of the finest women champions the game has ever produced.

Names, dates and individual matches have faded into time now, although she remembers some of the greats like England's Kathleen McKanes and Lili de Alvarez of Spain.

"The finest player I ever met was France's Suzanne Lenglen, who beat me once in South France," she recalled. "I was 18 then and just arriving at the peak of my game."

Now, Helen has found a variety of interests to supplement her leisurely tennis, playing about every other day at the Beach Club in nearby Pebble Beach, where pro Don Leary will tell you, "She was the world's greatest."

While Roark, who has substituted the raising the training of championship English Springers for polo, and acts as a racing official at Golden Gate Fields, Monmouth Park and other tracks, Helen has become active in Republican Party affairs, oil painting and caring for their relatively new home in the Carmel Valley, just outside this quaint coastal town.

"I'm just getting used to living in our new place," she sad. She does some gardening but "not very strenuous, though."

Young Takes Pro Division In Omaha Golf

Young's team of amateurs Steve Bock, Larry Romjue and Don Palmer also won the team handicap division with a best-ball handicap score of 63.

Tom Fulkerson and defending State Amateur Champion Bob Astleford, both of Omaha, tied for low amateur honors with one-over-par 73s.

The results:

LOW PRO—John Young, Lincoln Holmes Park, 75; Matt Zadalis, Omaha Miller Park, 76; Don Placek, Fremont Country Club, 77.

LOW AMATEUR—Tom Fulkerson, Omaha, 73; Bob Astleford, Omaha, 73; Larry Romjue, Lincoln, 75; Wes Malnack, Omaha, 75.

LOW TEAM (Scratch)—Omaha Benson Park: pro Bob Anthes, amateurs Bob Astleford, Wes Malnack and Dick Dykes, 66; Grand Island Riverside Golf Club: pro Merle Backlund, amateurs Ron Peterson, Bob Peterson and Jim Easley, 68.

LOW TEAM (Handicap) — Lincoln Hillcrest Country Club: pro Merle Backlund, amateurs Cliff Orcutt, John Bottorff, Paul Anderson, 65.

Bohaty's Homer Gives Ken Witt's 5-2 Legion Win

Beatrice — Mike Bohaty's two-run home run in the eighth inning of a scheduled seven-inning contest gave Lincoln Witt's Juniors a 5-2 win over Beatrice here Monday.

The homer, with Dana Stephenson on second base, gave Witt hurler John McEniry his fifth win against no losses.

Brown Goes To Court

Cleveland (AP) — Eight jurors — most of whom are not football fans — were questioned Monday in the opening day of the trial of professional fullback Jim Brown.

Five women and three men were seated tentatively after careful questioning by Police Prosecutor Al Corsi and Defense Atty. Norman Minor.

Brown, 29-year-old All-Pro fullback of the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns, is charged with assault and battery against Miss Brenda Ayres, 18.

Tentative seating of the jury continues in Municipal Court Tuesday at 9 a.m., EDT. Then lawyers for both sides may exercise challenges and replace some jurors.

Both Corsi and Minor took special note to point out the meaning of circumstantial evidence. Brown has pleaded innocent and declined to make pre-trial comment to the charge by Miss Ayres that he slapped her in an East Side Motel on the night of June 19.

Neither side has indicated it knows of any witnesses to the alleged incident. Conviction on the assault and battery charge carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $200 fine.

With Minor as Brown's defense counsel are Jerry Milano and Miss Sarah Harper.

Brown, smiling when he entered the courtroom, was dressed in a dark suit. He chatted with a few acquaintances and occasionally whispered to Miss Harper once the trial started.

2 City Teams Lose Junior Ballgames

Defending state American Legion Junior champion Grand Island scored four times in the 12th inning to garner a 6-2 victory over the Lincoln Optimists at Sherman Field Monday night.

In the second game, Roberts took a 6-3 lashing from Hastings.

The Islanders scored four runs on three hits in the top of the 12th, breaking open a 2-2 tie. Singles by Doug Townsand, Dick Vautravers and John Copple, coupled with a fielder's choice, a walk and an error sent the Optimist's down in defeat.

Hastings scored five runs in the first two innings to gain its 6-3 win over Roberts. Gary Smith's Roberts team, trailing 6-2 going into the bottom of the ninth, rallied for one run, but was still three big tallies short.

Seeded Netters Advance In River Forest Tourney

River Forest, Ill. (AP)—All seeded players advanced without incident to the second round of the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships at the River Forest Tennis Club Monday.

The only upsets registered were by a pair of relatively unknown teen-agers who eliminated the nation's 12th and 13th-ranked players.

The tournament was being played as a final tune-up for America's Davis Cup squad which meets Mexico in Dallas beginning July 31.

Fifth-ranked Hamilton Richardson came out of semi-retirement after being asked to play on the Davis Cup doubles team. Richardson responded with a first-round victory over Jeff Brown of Carmichael, Calif., 6-2, 6-0.

Top-seeded Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., who is to play with Richardson on the U.S. doubles team, scored an easy 6-2, 6-0, victory over Southern Illinois University's Mike Sprengelmeyer.

Second-seeded Arthur Ashe Jr. of Richmond, Va., another Davis Cupper, defeated Ned Held of Weston, Mass., 6-1, 6-4.

Cliff Richey of Dallas, Tex., winner of Sunday's Western Open in Milwaukee and eighth seeded in the Clay Courts, defeated Lester Sack, Clarksdale, Miss., 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Another Davis Cup hopeful, Marty Riessen, Evanston, Ill., downed John Powless, Flora, Ill., 6-4, 6-1.

Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., 19-year-old National Boys champion, upset 12th-ranked Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, 6-3, 7-5, and Walter Johnson of Atlanta eliminated 13th-ranked Tom Edlefsenn of Los Angeles, 7-5, 6-2.

In the women's division, top-seeded Nancy Richey, the defending champion from Dallas, defeated Connie Cristler of Shawnee Mission, Kan. 6-2, 6-2.

Second-seeded Carole Graebner of Evanston, Ill., swept past Alice Pym, Peoria, Ill., 6-0, 7-5, 6-3.

Highly regarded Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., was upset by Kathleen Harder, Seal Beach, Calif., 6-4, 6-3.

Whitworth Tops Women

Quincy, Ill. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth has increased her money lead on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour following her victory in the Lady Carling Midwest Open over the weekend.

Miss Whitworth pocketed $1,500 following her Lady Carling triumph to boost her earnings for the year to $13,535. It was Kathy's fourth official victory.

Carol Mann remained in second place with earnings of $9,891 while Sandra Haynie pushed her way into third place with winnings of $9,421.

Waters Leads Junior Girl GolfQualifiers

Kathy Waters of the Omaha Country Club led qualifying in the junior girls division of the Nebraska State Ladies Golf Tournament Monday at the Hillcrest Country Club as 18 girls began bidding for the title won last year by Lincoln's Christie Schwartzkopf.

Kathy's 96 was eight strokes ahead of runner-up Linda Haller of McCook. Hillcrest's Kay Stiner was third in qualifying with 110.

The juniors will begin match play today.

The scores:

Kathy Waters, OCC	47-49—96
Linda Haller, McCook	52-52—104

Thomas' Replacement In Hospital For Exam

Philadelphia (AP) — Outfielder Adolpho Phillips of the Philadelphia Phillies, brought up from Arkansas in the Pacific Coast League to replace Frank Thomas, is in the hospital here for a checkup on an ailing back.

Phillips arrived here Thursday night.

Thomas was waived by the Phillies after he fought in batting practice with teammate Rich Allen. Thomas was claimed Saturday by the Houston Astros.

Ak-Sar-Ben Pays State $1 Million Plus

Omaha (AP)— Ak-Sar-Ben paid the state of Nebraska $1,219,609 48 Monday representing the amount realized from the four per cent tax on pari-mutuel wagering during the 42-day throughbred racing season

Peter Kiewit, governor of Ak-Sar-Ben and chairman of its racing committee, presented the check to State Treasurer Fred Sorensen. He said this payment, together with the State Admissions tax of $78,315.15, the $200 per day state licensing fee amounting to $8,400 and individual licensing fees totaling $8,491, bringing Ak-Sar-Ben's total payments to the state from its 1965 racing season to $1,314,915.63.

Ak-Sar-Ben, a non-profit, agricultural society, operates under the laws governing such organizations which provide not only for the four per cent pari-mutuel wagering tax, the daily track license fee and individual licensing for everyone employed or engaged in racing at Ak-Sar-Ben. These laws govern all race meetings in the state.

Hall Making Strong Run For AL Batting Leadership

. . . ALSO MVP CANDIDATE

New York (AP)— Jimmie Hall of the pace-setting Minnesota Twins, making a strong run for the American League batting lead, must also be considered among the circuit's most valuable players at the season's halfway mark.

The 27-year-old North Carolinian tops the Twins in batting with a .325 mark and runs batted in with 52. He also shares the club home run lead with slugger Harmon Killebrew. The latter's ninth inning blast beat New York Sunday and enabled Minnesota to take a five-game lead in the pennant race. Both Hall and Killebrew have 16 circuit blows.

Hall hit .448 in last week's games. He collected 13 hits in 29 times at bat, picked up 14 points and moved into second place in the AL batting competition.

The leader, Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, has been sidelined with an injured leg since July 2. He is batting .340

Vic Davalillo of Cleveland dropped to third place at .321. He slumped 14 points with only six hits in 31 attempts. Felix Mantilla of Boston also fell one notch to fourth at .316. His average dipped eight points on a 5-for-23 performance. Willie Horton, Detroit outfielder, held the No. 5 spot despite a three point drop to .306.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants took over the National League lead with a .339 average. The veteran outfielder gained six points with nine hits in 22 tries and took the top position from Philadelphia's Richie Allen, who slipped to fourth.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente is only one point behind Mays at 338. He climbed five points with a 14-for-38 showing. Allen and Pittsburgh's Donn Clendenon are tied for third at .328, followed by Hank Aaron of Milwaukee with .326.

The 27-year-old North Carolinian tops the Twins in batting with a .325 mark and runs batted in with 52. He also shares the club home run lead with slugger Harmon Killebrew. The latter's ninth inning blast beat New York Sunday and enabled Minnesota to take a five-game lead in the pennant race. Both Hall and Killebrew have 16 circuit blows.

Hall hit .448 in last week's games. He collected 13 hits in 29 times at bat, picked up 14 points and moved into second place in the AL batting competition.

The leader, Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, has been sidelined with an injured leg since July 2. He is batting .340.

Vic Davalillo of Cleveland dropped to third place at .321. He slumped 14 points with only six hits in 31 attempts. Felix Mantilla of Boston also fell one notch to fourth at .316. His average dipped eight points on a 5-for-23 performance. Willie Horton, Detroit outfielder, held the No. 5 spot despite a three point drop to .306.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants took over the National League lead with a .339 average. The veteran outfielder gained six points with nine hits in 22 tries and took the top position from Philadelphia's Richie Allen, who slipped to fourth.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente is only one point behind Mays at .338. He climbed five points with a 14-for-38 showing. Allen and Pittsburgh's Donn Clendenon are tied for third at .328, followed by Hank Aaron of Milwaukee with .326.

Yanks In Viet Nam To Be Over 100,000

Washington (UPI) — The U S. troop commitment in South Viet Nam is expected to rise to more than 100 000 men by the end of summer. But defense officials denied Monday any immediate plans to call up the reserves or increase the draft

Discussion of a reserve call-up and higher draft calls was intensified by the weekend disclosure that an additional 33.000 men would be sent to Viet Nam in the next two months to supplement an American force of 67,000 already there.

Asked about a possible reserve mobilization, the Defense Department said: "There are no plans at this time to call reserves"

Discounted

Earlier, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara discounted the possibility of any accelerated draft rate

At a news conference last week, President Johnson declined to commit himself when asked about the reserve and draft possibilities.

The buildup of American fighting strength in Viet Nam is known, however, to be "open-ended," with no definite manpower limit set. A number of observers feel that a manpower strain might be felt within a few months which could require reinforcement of the present 2.7 million military force now in uniform.

Johnson told his news conference that the war in Viet Nam would "get worse before it gets better" He said of the American buildup, "There will be others that will be required Whatever is required, I am sure will be supplied."

The last time the reserves were summoned to duty was in 1961 when the late President John F. Kennedy, with congressional backing, called them up because of the Berlin crisis.

Should Johnson decide the reserves are needed, he could declare an emergency empowering him to call up one million men for up to two years' service. He could do so either with or without a congressional resolution of support.

No decision on such a move is anticipated in Washington until McNamara and newly named Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge return from an on-the-spot survey in Viet Nam later this month.

McNamara and Lodge, along with Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will leave for Saigon Wednesday to confer with Lodge's predecessor, retiring Ambassador Maxwell Taylor, and U.S military commanders on the scene, They are expected to spend a week on the study.

More Chicago Police Patrols Search For New 'Mad Bomber'

Chicago (AP) — Increased police patrols were ordered into Chicago's downtown district Monday night after a fresh bomb blast — the fourth in the Loop area in six days—damaged the Wrigley Building, a Michigan Avenue landmark.

Police feared a "mad bomber" was srtiking at random.

Three other structures in the downtown area, a newspaper plant, an office building and a railroad depot, were guarded as a result of bomb threats.

The explosion at the Wrigley Building, that stands like a tall frosted cake on the north bank of the Chicago River, occurred near midnight Sunday night, shattering more than 30 windows in the building's two lower levels. Three automobiles parked nearby were damaged.

Wrigley Building

The Wrigley Building blast and similar bombings at two other Loop area office buildings last week caused authorities to speculate that a "mad bomber" might be responsible for all three.

Experts of the police department bomb squad reported all three were caused by black powder bombs, similarly constructed.

Authorities, however, admittedly were unable to determine a move for the bombings.

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the Illinois Crime Investigating Committee, attributed the bombings to a maniac.

Scare Everybody

"It must be the work of some person who wants to scare the daylight out of everybody," he said.

Police were searching for two men seen running from the scene of the west side blast, at the Mister Softee of Illinois Corp., at 2236 Harrison St. The firm operates a fleet of trucks used for street sales of ice cream.

Authorities speculated the two men might be the same pair seen fleeing from the scene of a bombing Saturday night that damaged a building in the wholesale clothing district.

First Explosion

The first explosion in the downtown area occurred early Wednesday at the Masonic Building on the southeast corner of Wacker Drive and Washington Street.

Ex-Convicts Talked To Champions

Sacramento (UPI) — A defense attorney for one of two Oregon desperadoes suggested Monday that the men may have talked too much to one of their kidnap victims, California Finance Director Hale Champion.

William D. Heekin, one of two attorneys appointed to defend Wilfred M. Gray, 30, and Carl C. Bowles, 24, conceded that Champion's recollections of the conversations would make "good evidence" for the prosecution.

Champion, abducted last Thursday with his wife and 19-month-old daughter, told newsmen after all were released that the ex-convicts had discussed the shooting of an Oregon deputy sheriff, the robbery of an Oregon bank and the kidnaping and release of six other persons while holding the Champions at gun point during a zig-zag trip over the Nevada desert.

Indicted

The two have been indicted by a federal grand jury in Sacramento on a charge of kidnaping the Champions. However, the jury did not mention the fact that Champion was shot in the leg by a Tonopah, Nev., card dealer while being held by the desperadoes.

If bodily harm could be proved in connection with the kipnaping charge, the men would face a death sentence under both federal and California law.

The federal indictment apparently cut the ground out from under Sacramento County authorities who were prepared to prosecute the Champion kidnaping with a bodily harm provision. Cecil Poole, U.S. attorney for Northern California, said he would not release Gray and Bowles to the county.

Democracy Won't Work In Family, PTA Told

Psychiatrist Thaddeus P. Krush confirmed what most parents practice in dealing with their children.

Families cannot be run as democracies, Dr. Krush told Nebraska PTA representatives attending the leadership training institute Monday.

Some family members have more votes than others and this must be taken into account. Families in many respects must be more like monarchies," the clinical director of community services division of the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in Omaha said.

Not Miniature Adults

Krush said children aren't minature adults. "Allow them to develop as children," he urged.

He said parents should not be pals with their children because "they're not your age. A child must learn to grow up with his peers."

He said teachers and parents often ignore signs of obvious distress in children. Panic in an individual is an emergency and someone should respond to it, Krush said.

The psychiatrist said the hardest transaction for parents and children to realize is "giving of one's self."

He noted that girls are as delinquent as boys. Society doesn't usually think so because boys destroy property whereas girls' destructive tendencies are more subtle, Krush explained.

Children's Views

Also on Monday's program were views from eight elementary and secondary school children.

They discussed how friendly mothers and fathers should be with teachers, the number of activities to participate in, parents' attitudes that influence children and a system of rewards for good grades.

Miss Anne Christensen, assistant professor at the University of Nebraska and principal at Clare McPhee school, and Dr. Mary Scott, visiting professor at NU from Washington, D.C., also participated in the panel.

The PTA institute will end Tuesday..

These and many more questions which have perplexed and puzzled loyal Americans regarding internal subversion will be answered by one who has lived inside this conspiracy for 26 years.

- Why Americans Become Communists
- Why Communists Leave the Party
- How Communists have been brain washed into silence when they do leave the party (instead of alerting their fellow citizens to the danger of this conspiracy)
- How powerful and influential this well organized, well trained minority is.
- How these "dedicated few" manipulate innocent people and organizations into unwitting dupes.
- How far into our political organizations and government the Reds have managed to infiltrate.
- What the aims of the Communist party USA really are.
- Where the direction of this conspiracy originates.
- What Americans can do through legislation.

Children's Views

Also on Monday's program were views from eight elementary and secondary school children.

They discussed how friendly mothers and fathers should be with teachers, the number of activities to participate in, parents' attitudes that influence children and a system of rewards for good grades.

Miss Anne Christensen, assistant professor at the University of Nebraska and principal at Clare McPhee school, and Dr. Mary Scott, visiting professor at NU from Washington, D.C., also participated in the panel.

The PTA institute will end Tuesday.

Jury Selected For Hatten's Murder Trial

Nebraska City (AP)—A district court jury of six men and six women, plus one woman alternate, was selected Monday in the first degree murder trial of Danny Charles Hatten of Auburn.

The jury was selected from a panel of 69 prospective jurors who reported to District Judge Victor Schmidt's court Monday.

Hatten, 25, is charged with the shooting March 27 of Mrs. William Snyder, 66, at her farm home near Talmage. She died two days later in an Omaha hospital.

Hatten is charged specifically with murder in prepetration of a robbery and deliberate and premeditated murder.

Originally from Nebraska City, Hatten, a brush salesman, was living at Auburn at the time Mrs. Snyder was injured fatally.

Japanese, U.S. Economies Declared Basically Healthy

Washington (AP) — The financial leaders of the U.S. and Japanese governments took a hard look at the economies of their nations Monday and declared them basically healthy.

One report of the joint cabinet committee on trade and economic affairs was by Japan's Finance Minister Takeo Fukuda and Aiichiro Fujiyama, director general of the Economic Planning Agency. They likened their country to a man who had run exceedingly hard and then slowed down because he was out of breath.

"Basically, they said, Japan would soon see the return of a healthy, stabilized economy.

The Japanese balance of payments situation has improved and in the long term, it is expected that the high rate of economic growth will be continued, they reported.

Stabilized Growth

In dealing with the future, the Japanese financial chiefs said they would seek to promote a stabilized rate of growth for Japan that would require timely action. The government must assist additional growth by reducing the corporate tax burden, they said.

Another situation to be corrected is that involving overextension on loans.

U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer told newsmen that a favorble report on the state of the U.S. economy was given to the cabinet members by Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers and by Secretary of the Treasury Heny H. Fowler.

Ackley spoke of a long period of sustained growth for the United States and healthy gains in reducing unemployment although he said it is still a problem of major concern to the administration.

Healthy Advances

On the basis of this year's reduction in excise taxes and the impending changes in Social Security payments an effect on the American economy will be felt this year, Ackley reported. He said healthy advances of the economy are expected and this will be taken into consideration in preparations for next year's budget.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said unemployment in the Unietd States is like a pyramid with teenagers, Negroes and undertrained adults at the base.

Fowler said there has been a favorable impact from short term measures to reduce the U.S. balance of payments deficit, but these measures are temporary and might not necessarily be continued.

Fowler said the long term outlook is improving because the United States is beginning to regain its competitive position in world trade.

World Situation

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Japan's Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina reviewed the world situation at the outset of the closed-door meeting.

Shiina emphasized that there is "much room for closer and better cooperation" between the two countries. He cautioned that the firm basis of U.S.-Japan cooperation would be lost unless there is constant and strenuous efforts to solve the problems as they arise between the two countries.

Rusk said that while the United States and Japan are major trading partners "we are also major competitors over a broad front." Happily, he said, most of the economic problems between the two countries have proved manageable "without too great a strain upon the fabric of our total relationship."

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Rose this sunny a.m. with a determination "to do something about it." Pushups. Knee bends. Exercise.

There are temptations which strong exercise best enables us to resist." So wrote Lord Avebury, bless his temptation-resisting heart, in "The Pleasures of Life."

When I do deep knee bends, I am tempting Fate. The spirit is willing. But the bones go crack-snap-pop — like breakfast cereal.

On the other hand — "Bodily exercise profiteth little." That is in the Good Book. A comforting thought.

☆ ☆ ☆

As any fat lush knows, the latest on getting in shape is "The Drinking Man's Diet."

The basic idea is never put a prune in your martini.

The gin is not fattening. But the prunes murder you.

I didn't read this book. But a number of my friends did. They read it and made life miserable at lunch. Kibbitzing my diet while banging down the vermouth -and-squareface with great gusto.

I did not read, neither did I diet. I have the lean and hungry look that Caesar dug on Cassius. Cassius obviously was on the grape (OK in the Diet). But was not chowing up on the spaghetti (which pops you up like a corn-fed goose).

☆ ☆ ☆

We live in a marvelous age of pill and diet. We have pousse-cafe pills that are stacked with layers of little pills within the master shell.

Layers of pink, yellow, red and black.

As one color is dissolving, the others are laying chickie. The yellow dissolves, calming the inner tread of doom. Fizzzzzz. The red goes to work Hyping you up enough to play handball.

You can see this work on the TV commercials.

☆ ☆ ☆

Here is the inside of a man who fees bad. And no wonder. The TV cutaway shows that somebody is dripping acid on his insides. How would you feel with hyperacid dripping in you?

Well we give this man the pill — you can see it drop down the pipe.

The yellow dissolves and mops up the acid. Then the pink dissolves and gives him a kind of wax finish. The red dissolves and fixes his headache.

And the black apparently is distilled catnip. For the TV now goes back to the original man. He is dancing with a cupcake who is attractiveiy packaged. Happy days.

☆ ☆ ☆

While all my friends are dieting, I have no excuse at all to leap into the luncheon martinis.

I weigh myself. But I never change. The reason I weigh is so I can get the fortune on the back of the ticket that pops out of the weight machine.

"You are generous to a fault. Consider carefully advice given to you by new acquaintances. Your lucky day is Friday."

I don't even look at the front — the weight side of the ticket. That is a good ticket. I am generous. I shall weigh advice from new acquaintances. Maybe I should go to the track on Friday.

☆ ☆ ☆

When I was a moppet, the doctors advised grandma to drink a bottle of beer a day. To put on weight.

It was a hard prescription. Beer was considered the first step on the way to Demon Rum and eventual down fall in our house.

However, she gritted her teeth and banged off a bottle.

I don't remember whether she put on weight or not. But it did her a world of good. She got bright-eyed and then got to giggling. And then she went in the bedroom and took a long nap.

Grinning Gunman Is Killed

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — A gangling, grinning gunman who asked "is everybody happy?" shot down two guards Monday before he was fatally wounded just outside the vault of the Texas Bank and Trust Co.

The 6-foot-3 bank robber was identified by Dallas Police Capt. Will Fritz as Cecil Francis Abbey, 38, of Eugene, Ore. He dicd shortly after 8 p.m. CST.

The two bank guards — W. A. Johnson and George Cox — remained in critical condition Monday night from their bullet wounds.

The attempted robbery occurred at 4:26 p.m. when only a few bank employees and customers were in the lobby of the downtown bank, the largest state bank in Texas and the fourth largest bank in Dallas.

Two Shots

Few were aware of the man's presence in the lobby until two shots rang out and Johnson slumped to the floor against a teller's cage.

"I looked up and saw a shabbily dressed man sauntering across the lobby," Bill Pugh, a customer in the bank said. "He carried a pistol like it was a cap gun. He held it loosely, toward the floor, and looked like a kid who was embarrassed because his cap pitol had gone off."

Witnesses said he ejected two spent shells from the pistol, looked around and grinned.

"Is everybody happy?" he asked, still grinning.

Then turning to Art Atkinson, head of the new accounts department, he asked. "Is there someone around here who can show me to the vault?"

Demanded Money

When Cox, who was inside the vault, opened the door, the man pushed forward and demanded, "Where's the money?"

"Then he fired two shots at George (Cox)," Atkinson related. "The robber turned and walked back a few feet and fiddled with his pistol as if there was something wrong with it.

"Then George fired three shots and the man slumped down and tumbled over backwards.

"Then George, still standing beside the door, said "I'm shot," Atkinson recounted.

Cox and Johnson, both retired policemen, were shot in the chest with .25 caliber slugs. The gunman was hit once in the head with a .38 caliber slug.

Human Skeleton Believed From Indian Burial

North Platte (AP) — The Lincoln County Sheriff's office says a human skeleton found this weekend at a sand and gravel pit east of Brady is believed to be from an Indian burial. Officers are attempting to determine the age and sex of the skeleton which appeared to have been in the ground for many years.

Anti-Betancourt Revolt Head Dies

Caracas, Venezuela (AP) — Gen. Jesus Maria Castro Leon, leader of an abortive revolt against President Romulo Betancourt's government in 1960, died of a heart attack today in a military prison, family members said.

Castro Leon, an air force general, was minister of defense under the military junta headed by Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal following the overthrow of dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez in 1958.

In April 1960, Castro Leon led a military uprising at San Cristobal and was captured while trying to reach the Colombian border to take refuge.

He had been in San Marcos military prison awaiting sentencing by a court martial on charges of insurrection. A military prosecutor had asked a sentence of 18-20 years.

Japanese, U.S. Economies Declared Basically Healthy

Washington (AP) — The financial leaders of the U.S. and Japanese governments took a hard look at the economies of their nations Monday and declared them basically healthy.

One report of the joint cabinet committee on trade and economic affairs was by Japan's Finance Minister Takeo Fukuda and Aiichiro Fujiyama, director general of the Economic Planning Agency. They likened their country to a man who had run exceedingly hard and then slowed down because he was out of breath.

Basically, they said, Japan would soon see the return of a healthy, stabilized economy.

The Japanese balance of payments situation has improved and in the long term, it is expected that the high rate of economic growth will be continued, they reported.

Stabilized Growth

In dealing with the future, the Japanese financial chiefs said they would seek to promote a stabilized rate of growth for Japan that would require timely action. The government must assist additional growth by reducing the corporate tax burden, they said.

Another situation to be corrected is that involving overextension on loans.

U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer told newsmen that a favorble report on the state of the U.S. economy was given to the cabinet members by Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers and by Secretary of the Treasury Heny H. Fowler.

Ackley spoke of a long period of sustained growth for the United States and healthy gains in reducing unemployment although he said it is still a problem of major concern to the administration.

Healthy Advances

On the basis of this year's reduction in excise taxes and the impending changes in Social Security payments an effect on the American economy will be felt this year, Ackley reported. He said healthy advances of the economy are expected and this will be taken into consideration in preparations for next year's budget.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said unemployment in the Unietd States is like a pyramid with teenagers, Negroes and undertrained adults at the base.

Fowler said there has been a favorable impact from short term measures to reduce the U.S. balance of payments deficit, but these measures are temporary and might not necessarily be continued.

Fowler said the long term outlook is improving because the United States is beginning to regain its competitive position in world trade.

World Situation

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Japan's Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina reviewed the world situation at the outset of the closed-door meeting.

Shiina emphasized that there is "much room for closer and better cooperation" between the two countries. He cautioned that the firm basis of U.S.-Japan cooperation would be lost unless there is constant and strenuous efforts to solve the problems as they arise between the two countries.

Rusk said that while the United States and Japan are major trading partners "we are also major competitors over a broad front." Happily, he said, most of the economic problems between the two countries have proved manageable "without too great a strain upon the fabric of our total relationship."

POSTCARD by Stan Kallaplane

Rose this sunny a.m. with a determination "to do something about it." Pushups. Knee bends. Exercise.

There are temptations which strong exercise best enables us to resist." So wrote Lord Avebury, bless his temptation-resisting heart, in "The Pleasures of Life."

When I do deep knee bends, I am tempting Fate. The spirit is willing. But the bones go crack-snap-pop — like breakfast cereal.

On the other hand — "Bodily exercise profiteth little." That is in the Good Book. A comforting thought.

☆ ☆ ☆

As any fat lush knows, the latest on gettng in shape is "The Drinking Man's Diet."

The basic idea is never put a prune in your martini.

The gin is not fattening. But the prunes murder you.

I didn't read this book. But a number of my friends did. They read it and made life miserable at lunch. Kibbitzing my diet while banging down the vermouth -and-squareface with great gusto.

I did not read, neither did I diet. I have the lean and hungry look that Caesar dug on Cassius. Cassius obviously was on the grape (OK in the Diet). But was not chowing up on the spaghetti (which pops you up like a corn-fed goose).

☆ ☆ ☆

We live in a marvelous age of pill and diet. We have pousse-cafe pills that are stacked with layers of little pills within the master shell.

Layers of pink, yellow, red and black.

As one color is dissolving, the others are laying chickie.

The yellow dissolves, calming the inner tread of doom. Fizzzzzz. The red goes to work Hyping you up enough to play handball.

You can see this work on the TV commercials.

☆ ☆ ☆

Here is the inside of a man who fees bad. And no wonder. The TV cutaway shows that somebody is dripping acid on his insides. How would you feel with hyperacid dripping in you?

Well we give this man the pill — you can see it drop down the pipe.

The yellow dissolves and mops up the acid. Then the pink dissolves and gives him a kind of wax finish. The red dissolves and fixes his headache.

And the black apparently is distilled catnip. For the TV now goes back to the original man. He is dancing with a cupcake who is attractiveiy packaged. Happy days.

☆ ☆ ☆

While all my friends are dieting, I have no excuse at all to leap into the luncheon martinis.

I weigh myself. But I never change. The reason I weigh is so I can get the fortune on the back of the ticket that pops out of the weight machine.

"You are generous to a fault. Consider carefully advice given to you by new acquaintances. Your lucky day is Friday."

I don't even look at the front — the weight side of the ticket. That is a good ticket. I am generous. I shall weigh advice from new acquaintances. Maybe I should go to the track on Friday.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Drinking Man's Diet has been sweeping the nation, of course, For there's nothing like a scientific reason for such things.

When I was a moppet, the doctors advised grandma to drink a bottle of beer a day. To put on weight.

It was a hard prescription. Beer was considered the first step on the way to Demon Rum and eventual down fall in our house.

However, she gritted her teeth and banged off a bottle.

I don't remember whether she put on weight or not. But it did her a world of good. She got bright-eyed and then got to giggling. And then she went in the bedroom and took a long nap.

Grinning Gunman Is Killed

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — A gangling, grinning gunman who asked "is everybody happy?" shot down two guards Monday before he was fatally wounded just outside the vault of the Texas Bank and Trust Co.

The 6-foot-3 bank robber was identified by Dallas Police Capt. Will Fritz as Cecil Francis Abbey, 38, of Eugene, Ore. He died shortly after 8 p.m. CST.

The two bank guards — W. A. Johnson and George Cox — remained in critical condition Monday night from their bullet wounds.

The attempted robbery occurred at 4:26 p.m. when only a few bank employees and customers were in the lobby of the downtown bank, the largest state bank in Texas and the fourth largest bank in Dallas.

Two Shots

Few were aware of the man's presence in the lobby until two shots rang out and Johnson slumped to the floor against a teller's cage.

"I looked up and saw a shabbily dressed man sauntering across the lobby," Bill Pugh, a customer in the bank said. "He carried a pistol like it was a cap gun. He held it loosely, toward the floor, and looked like a kid who was embarrassed because his cap pitol had gone off."

Witnesses said he ejected two spent shells from the pistol, looked around and grinned.

"Is everybody happy?" he asked, still grinning.

Then turning to Art Atkinson, head of the new accounts department, he asked. "Is there someone around here who can show me to the vault?"

Demanded Money

When Cox, who was inside the vault, opened the door, the man pushed forward and demanded, "Where's the money?"

"Then he fired two shots at George (Cox)," Atkinson related. "The robber turned and walked back a few feet and fiddled with his pistol as if there was something wrong with it.

"Then George fired three shots and the man slumped down and tumbled over backwards.

"Then George, still standing beside the door, said "I'm shot," Atkinson recounted.

Cox and Johnson, both retired policemen, were shot in the chest with .25 caliber slugs. The gunman was hit once in the head with a .38 caliber slug.

City-Citizen Liaison Job Discussed By New Body

Ways to communicate in a liaison capacity between the city government and citizens of Lincoln were discussed at the second meeting of the newly organized Council of Communities Monday night.

The eight-member body, representing areas throughout Lincoln, took preliminary steps to organize a mail survey questionnaire on city services.

John Haesseler, co-chairman of the council who suggested the survey, was asked to work out a preliminary questionnaire and present it at the next meeting which will be Aug. 2.

Resource Pool

The council also discussed the possibilities of providing a pool of people resources for the mayor or council to come to in making committee appointments in order to get a fair representation from all sections of Lincoln.

Another suggestion made by Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz concerned promotion of Lincoln. He said the city needs to promote its cultural aspects. He noted visitors are very surprised to find out how much Lincoln does offer.

Other areas discussed included:

—Area meetings with individual council members and citizens from their locale.

—A complaint or question department in City Hall for the public's use.

Complaint Office

—Housing for the aged, particularly for the low income.

ROY ACUFF'S CONDITION IS SATISFACTORY

Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—Country music star Roy Acuff, a member of the Grand Ole Opry and twice a candidate for governor of Tennessee, was listed in satisfactory condition Monday after being seriously injured in a weekend traffic accident.

Hospital officials also listed two of Acuff's companions—guitarist Harold (Shot) Jackson and singer June Stearn—in satisfactory condition.

The two-car collision occurred during a heavy rain. Acuff suffered a fractured pelvis, a broken collarbone and several broken ribs.

Riding Rocky's Mishap Slight

Caracas, Venezuela (AP) — A spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said Monday the governor "had a slight and unimportant riding accident last Wednesday" at his Venezuelan ranch.

The spokesman made no mention in his statement of reports from Rockefeller friends in Venezuela that the governor had fallen from a horse and suffered minor bruises.

"He suffered no injuries whatsoever," the spokesman said.

Income Tax Bill Is 'Laid To Rest'

An income tax bill was quietly laid to rest in the state Legislature Monday.

Lawmakers consented to withdrawal of LB141, which called for a state income tax pegged to a percentage of one's federal income tax.

Passage earlier of another income tax bill, Bauer's LB797, made LB141 excess baggage.

Poor Judgment Blamed In Fatal Gottschalk Crash

Washington (UPI)—Poor pilot judgment caused the fatal crash of a private plane near Nebraska City, Neb., last Jan. 12, the Civil Aeronautics Board said Monday.

Killed in the crash were the pilot, Frederick A. Gottschalk of Columbus, Neb., and his daughter. Gottschalk was a former state senator.

The two were flying from East Alton, Ill., to Columbus when the plane went out of control during a snowstorm.

The CAB said the pilot, who was not qualified to fly on instruments, attempted to continue visual flight into bad weather and lost control. The board said a weather briefing he received before takeoff warned of snowstorms that probably would preclude visual flight.

Dr. Chappell, 70, Former Minden Mayor, Is Dead

Minden (UPI)—Dr. William Elliott Chappell, 70, a former longtime mayor of Minden, died Monday morning in a Minden hospital. He had suffered a heart attack Sunday.

Dr. Chappell had practiced dentistry here for 45 years. In addition to serving as mayor he had been a member of the school board and the City Council.

He is survived by his wife, Mona; a son, Dr. Elliott Ray of Minden; daughter, Mrs. Rodney Beck of Omaha, three brothers and a sister.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Wilson Accuses U.A.R.

London (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson charged that military personnel of the United Arab Republic backed the campaign of "violence, subversion and murder" now gripping the British colony of Aden.

West Lincoln May Ask City To Help Spray

West Lincoln Village Board members Monday night discussed asking the City of Lincoln to spray the area around the village.

The plan, members said, would be to make the village's own mosquito-spraying campaign more effective.

Board members were told that the village's clean-up campaign is progressing. Cooperation from everyone notified of deficiences was reported.

The board decided to support a request from the League of Nebraska Municipalities to back a proposal for the location of a $280,000,000 nuclear research facility in the state.

City-Citizen Liaison Job Discussed By New Body

Ways to communicate in a liaison capacity between the city government and citizens of Lincoln were discussed at the second meeting of the newly organized Council of Communities Monday night.

The eight-member body, representing areas throughout Lincoln, took preliminary steps to organize a mail survey questionnaire on city services.

John Haesseler, co-chairman of the council who suggested the survey, was asked to work out a preliminary questionnaire and present it at the next meeting which will be Aug. 2.

Resource Pool

The council also discussed the possibilities of providing a pool of people resources for the mayor or council to come to in making committee appointments in order to get a fair representation from all sections of Lincoln.

Another suggestion made by Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz concerned promotion of Lincoln. He said the city needs to promote its cultural aspects. He noted visitors are very surprised to find out how much Lincoln does offer.

Other areas discussed included:

—Area meetings with individual council members and citizens from their locale.

—A complaint or question department in City Hall for the public's use.

Complaint Office

—Housing for the aged, particularly for the low income.

ROY ACUFF'S CONDITION IS SATISFACTORY

Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—Country music star Roy Acuff, a member of the Grand Ole Opry and twice a candidate for governor of Tennessee, was listed in satisfactory condition Monday after being seriously injured in a weekend traffic accident.

Hospital officials also listed two of Acuff's companions—guitarist Harold (Shot) Jackson and singer June Stearn—in satisfactory condition.

Riding Rocky's Mishap Slight

Caracas, Venezuela (AP) — A spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said Monday the governor "had a slight and unimportant riding accident last Wednesday" at his Venezuelan ranch.

The spokesman made no mention in his statement of reports from Rockefeller friends in Venezuela that the governor had fallen from a horse and suffered minor bruises.

"He suffered no injuries whatsoever," the spokesman said.

Poor Judgment Blamed In Fatal Gottschalk Crash

Washington (UPI)—Poor pilot judgment caused the fatal crash of a private plane near Nebraska City, Neb., last Jan. 12, the Civil Aeronautics Board said Monday.

Killed in the crash were the pilot, Frederick A. Gottschalk of Columbus, Neb., and his daughter. Gottschalk was a former state senator.

The two were flying from East Alton, Ill., to Columbus when the plane went out of control during a snowstorm.

The CAB said the pilot, who was not qualified to fly on instruments, attempted to continue visual flight into bad weather and lost control. The board said a weather briefing he received before takeoff warned of snowstorms that probably would preclude visual flight.

Dr. Chappell, 70, Former Minden Mayor, Is Dead

Minden (UPI)—Dr. William Elliott Chappell, 70, a former longtime mayor of Minden, died Monday morning in a Minden hospital. He had suffered a heart attack Sunday.

Dr. Chappell had practiced dentistry here for 45 years. In addition to serving as mayor he had been a member of the school board and the City Council.

He is survived by his wife, Mona; a son, Dr. Elliott Ray of Minden; daughter, Mrs. Rodney Beck of Omaha, three brothers and a sister.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Income Tax Bill Is 'Laid To Rest'

An income tax bill was quietly laid to rest in the state Legislature Monday.

Lawmakers consented to withdrawal of LB141, which called for a state income tax pegged to a percentage of one's federal income tax.

Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter introduced the bill originally, but later withdrew as sponsor. Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln became the replacement sponsor.

Passage earlier of another income tax bill, Bauer's LB797, made LB141 excess baggage.

Wilson Accuses U.A.R.

London (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson charged that military personnel of the United Arab Republic backed the campaign of "violence, subversion and murder" now gripping the British colony of Aden.

West Lincoln May Ask City To Help Spray

West Lincoln Village Board members Monday night discussed asking the City of Lincoln to spray the area around the village.

The plan, members said, would be to make the village's own mosquito-spraying campaign more effective.

Board members were told that the village's clean-up campaign is progressing. Cooperation from everyone notified of deficiences was reported.

The board decided to support a request from the League of Nebraska Municipalities to back a proposal for the location of a $280,000,000 nuclear research facility in the state.

Demo Chief Seeks GOP Tax Stand

Democratic State Chairman John Mitchell of Kearney Kearney Monday questioned where Republican National Committeeman Donald Ross and other GOP leaders stand on the state income tax issue.

Mitchel replied to criticism leveled by Ross against Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison who, Ross said, has failed to provide leadership on the tax question and other issues.

"It occurs to me," Mitchell replied, "that all of the people of Nebraska know where Governor Morrison stands on the income tax issue, but not one single responsible or irresponsible Republican Party leader has had the courage to make his position on the income tax clear."

'Negativism'

The Ross attack is indicative of the "negativism" which marks GOP leadership, Mitchell said.

Democratic National Committeeman Marvin Werve of maha, co-chairman of the income tax referendum petition drive, also fired back at Ross.

Werve noted that both he and his co-chairman, Richard Herman of Omaha, a Republican, publicly requested that the petition drive be divorced from partisan politics.

Continued

"The Republican national committeeman has seen fit to disregard this request and has continued to criticize the governor, myself and Dick Herman, a responsible representative of the Republican Party," Werve said.

"It would appear that Donald Ross has nothing more to offer the people of Nebraska than criticism.

"It is easy to criticize the action of others when you have never done anything yourself because no one can find anything to criticize you for in return."

Meanwhile, Assistant Democratic State Chairman William Hoppner of Pender chided Ross for criticism which he directed at Democratic Rep. Clair Callan.

Ross, he said, criticized Callan for "being more concerned with agricultural legislation than the proposed repeal of Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act" when agriculture is Nebraska's most important industry.

Real Estate Tax Stamp May Raise Some $1.2 Million

Legislation enacted Monday to provide for a state documentary stamp tax on real estate conveyances should raise an estimated $1.2 million per biennium once it becomes effective.

The measure, LB524, approved on a 32-13 vote, will become effective on Jan. 1, 1966 or whenever the present federal stamp tax on such deeds is repealed, whichever is later.

The state tax would be 55 cents for each $500 value. The tax is now levied by the federal government, but it is preparing to leave the field to the states.

Tax Pact Reached

Bonn Germany (AP) — West Germany and Japan have reached agreement regulating taxes on their citizens residing in the other's country.
